Volume XIII

Class

Class. It is one of the words in the English language that is so simple yet encompasses many meanings. In choosing a theme to represent the school, Class best depicted the variety and diversity of high school life.

Whether it is the sportsmanship of the athletes or excellence in academics or the pride and spirit of students and teachers alike, each is characteristic of the class every individual possesses. This class is that distinguishing trait that makes us different from everyone else. It makes us all special individuals.

In another sense, Class is a common factor uniting all people. Everyone has Class in some form or another. Basically it is a spirit of pride that is expressed in our actions. This spirit is the pride in ourselves that drives us forward and makes us succeed.

Class is both unique and common, diversified and regular. It encompasses the entire gamut of personalities and lifestyles. It can apply to the entire student body and faculty and every sport and organization. That is why Class is a fitting theme for this yearbook.

▲ In Mr. Manos' physics class, junior Varisara Gerjarusak copies information from the board. This was the first year Schurr students did not have to travel to Montebello High to attend physics.

▼ Turning onto Whittier Boulevard, the Bannerettes announce the Mighty Spartan Band to those attending the Montebello Royale parade.

▶ Seniors let everyone know who's "number one" during early morning Homecoming building decoration. They proved their boast by winning this year's building competition.

(213)728-5027 Class of '85

Our class, no matter what form it may be, is shown in our every action. Cheering at pep rallies, getting an extra yard on the football field, or winning a speech tournament all depict showing class.

Showing class is not a conscious act. Rather, it automatically appears in the effort and time we place in our work. All the long hours of practice after school and the endless drills and preparations show how dedicated we are to being the best we can possibly be. The extra effort we put in to get that added point to win a game or raise a grade represents our diligence and willingness to do hard work. Every time we get up and try again after numerous failures, we present our determination and unwitting drive to succeed.

Dedication, diligence, determination. These are all qualities that show class. Discovering these traits in the many things we do is easy. Likewise, showing class is not a difficult task, for class is found in our every action.

▼ Checking out the streamers, junior Keith Jimenez attempts to mak the junior building even better.

▲ Screaming at the top of their lungs, Natalie Johnson, Pam To, Sharon Young and Leslie Unger join the senior class in the Homecoming Jug Yell.

▼ At the end of a busy day, Nancy Salamone shoves all excess books in her locker and prepares to go home and enjoy the long weekend.

▲ While performing an award winning routine, Yolo Gerritsen flashes a smile to a familiar face in the crowd.

A Class Act

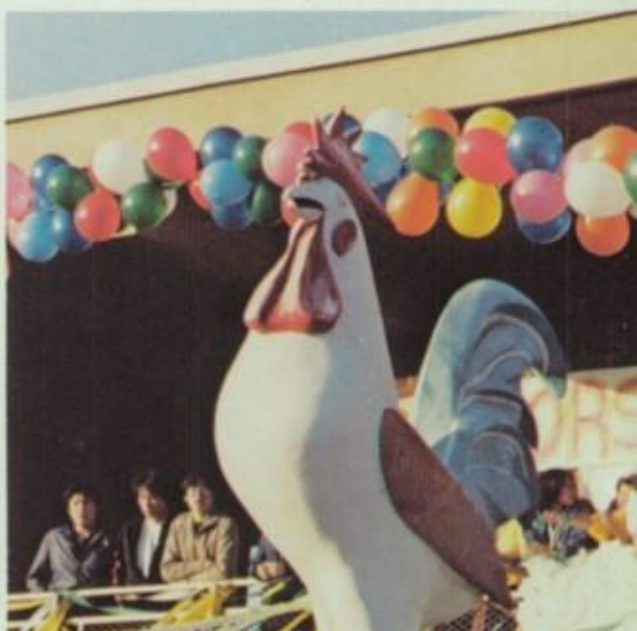
With so many students possessing an overabundance of class, it is not surprising to find so many class acts on campus. The clubs and sports teams each have such reputations that almost every student is involved in some sport or organization.

From the excellent band and drill team to the reputable pepsters and sports teams, Schurr has garnered them the reputation of being class acts on campus. They bring honor to our school and are a major influence on all students on campus.

To add to this list are the variety of clubs and organizations such as Girls' League, VICA, Asia, who dedicate their time to getting students involved in school. They are commendable organizations for their support of the school and the class that they bring.

Although many do not refer to the faculty as an organization, they too are a class act. They provide the education and preparation for students to succeed in the future. They are the inspiration for us all.

What does it take to be a class act? Just a touch of class and the spirit and pride are all that is needed.



▶ Determined to place in competition, drill team members concentrate on keeping in perfect order. Hard work paid off for the Spartanettes who garnered third place at the Arcadia Parade.

◀ Fired up for the football game against Santa Fe, the varsity football players rush out of the locker room. Despite having one home win, the football team maintained their winning sportsmanship and pride.

▲ Junior Julie Gonzales doesn't mind waking up an extra hour earlier to help in the building decoration. The junior building captured 2nd place in the competition.

◀ Gary Chavez and Jerry Candelaria strive to win another contest for the seniors. The juniors, however, won the marshmallow eating contest.

▼ Senior Liz Robles struts her stuff at the senior class pep rally. Each class had its own pep rally to coordinate.

Varsity cheerleader Michelle Gomez fires up the crowd during the senior pep rally. The dedicated spirit of the pepsters made em one of the "class" organizations on campus.

Class Action. What better way to describe student life than Class in Action? Student life is everything that pertains to any student's life both in school and out of school. It may include anything from dances and school activities to movies and fashion trends. Student life is a student's Class in action.

In everything a student does, he shows his Class. At dances or Homecoming, at the Prom or Christmas Ball, his Class stands out. His activities show his Class either cheering for a sports team, decorating a building or even dressing up for Toga Day.

Fashion TRENDS

What is the fashion trend of today? Is it looking like someone else or is it wanting to look different from others? Is it buying expensive clothes in expensive stores or is it buying inexpensive clothes in inexpensive stores? Mods, punks, new wavers, and new romantics all have a similar style of fashion, but they are all different enough so that people can tell them apart. Hair styles range from being very simple and unusual to very complicated and wild.

Mune Aceves, sophomore, said, "I dress this way because I wanted to be different from others and I also wanted to follow the fashion." Aceves buys most of her clothes in Westwood Village where almost everything is in style. After talking to Mune, I had the chance to talk to one of her friends, Stephanie Caudillo, who doesn't consider herself mod at all and who also said "I consider myself as an individual." Lizette Lacayo considers herself a punker, or ▲ Yamira Reyes strikes a fashionable pose. Her neon clothing was a fashion trend this year.

what she calls the "wild style." Her shoes range from $45 to $65 but what makes her unique is that she buys her clothes at the Thrift Shop, Salvation Army, or on Melrose Avenue Lacayo said, "I go to the mall but I never buy anything there because everyone has the same item of clothes and I want and like to look different." She also loves the color black and hates neon clothing which was in style this year. Neon makes people stand out so that other people can notice them. Well, what is fashion today may not be fashionable tomorrow!

▲ Patterning his style on the latest "British look," Andy Gold distinguishes himself through his clothing. Many fashion trends have come to the United States from countries like England.

▼ Showing their "wild style" are Irene Garcia, Lizette Lacayo, Judy Verdugo, and Patsy Moreno. They represented yet another fashion trend on campus.

SPIRIT WEEK

▲▲ With teamwork, the juniors manage to defeat the sophomores in the traditional tug-of-war. The tug-of-war was the first class competition of the week.

Hours of late-night flower-fluffing, days of activities planning and weeks of football practice all came to a climax on November 2 during Homecoming '84.

The spirit of Homecoming, however, was interrupted before it even began because of numerous incidents of float egging. USB solved this dilemma by cancelling the float competition.

Despite this temporary setback, Spirit Week commenced peacefully on Monday, October 29 with Toga Day. A tug of war was held during both lunches. Tuesday was designated as Reversal Day — students were encouraged to wear clothes inside out — and a mummy wrapping contest took place.

In honor of Halloween, Wednesday, October 31, Spartans let their wild and crazy personalities show by wearing costumes to school. During both lunches, amphitheater crowds judged their fellow students' costumes.

On Thursday, spirited teenagers became tacky-looking nerds. The nerds competed against themselves during both lunches with a car stuffing contest.

The big day finally arrived on Friday. Excitement hung in the air throughout the day, beginning at 5:00 a.m. as the classes attempted to decorate their respective buildings (freshmen — C-building, sophomores — D-building, juniors — B-building, seniors — A-building). A shortened class schedule was followed by an extended pep rally filled with contests between the classes.

The Senior Class proved its dominance by winning the jug yell contest, the candy-in-the-powdered-sugar contest, the lifesaver passing contest, the trash can painting competition and the building decorating contest.

Underclassmen, however, were not counted out of the action as the juniors won the marshmallow eating contest and the hot dog eating contest.

At the end of the pep rally, hungry Spartans hurried to Senior Park where several organizations were selling everything from teriyaki and rice balls to nachos, from pizza to snow-cones, and from pepperbellies to helium balloons.

After a day of yelling and eating and dancing, students hurried home to get ready for the night's main event — the game.

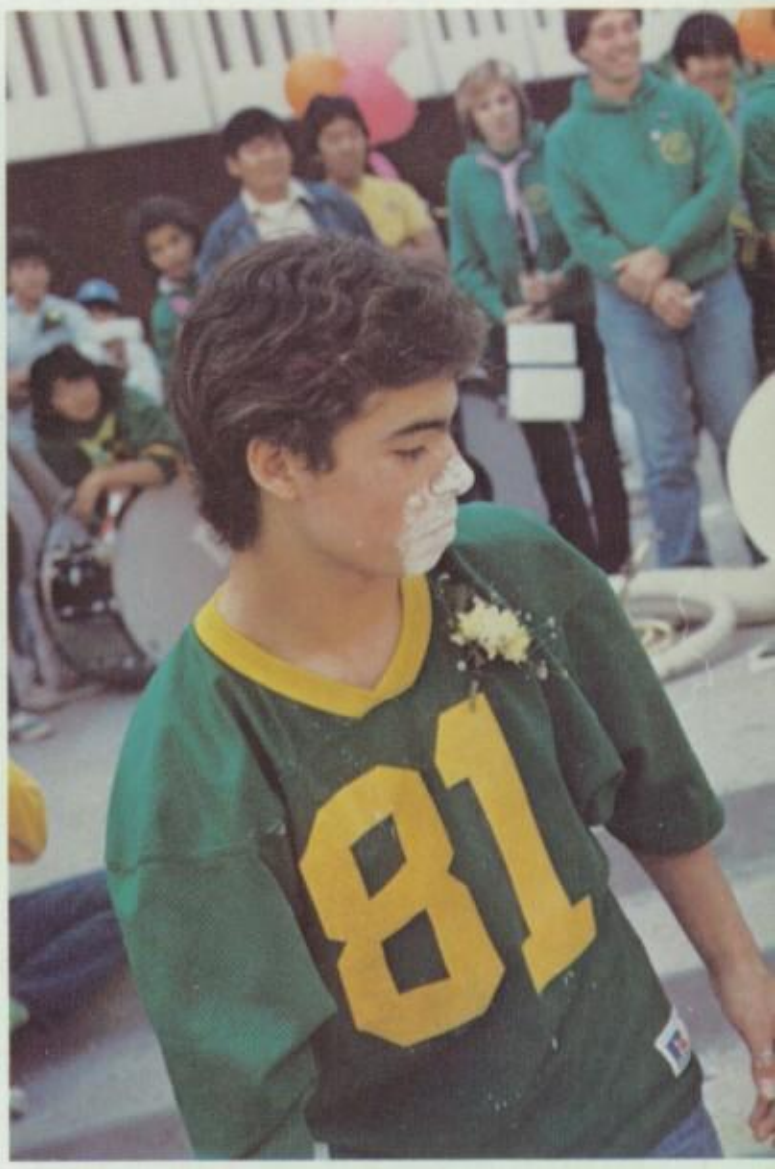
▶ Literally white in the face is Butch Le Noue after searching for candy in a dish of powdered sugar. This contest was won by the seniors during the Homecoming Pep Rally.



Spirit Survives Indian Ambush

Although the football team lost, 13-7, to the Burroughs Indians, spirit, pride, and enthusiasm prevailed as the student body proved that "winning is not everything." Homecoming '84, despite some slight egging problems, went smoothly and was enjoyed by freshmen and seniors alike.

USB planned a week of dress-up days, lunch time contests between the classes, and a homecoming day and night filled with excitement. Student Director of Activities Christopher Sakuma admitted, "It was hectic, but fun."

This year was the first year that voting for the Homecoming King and Queen was open to all classes, not just to seniors. During the extended Friday pep rally, Tim Phillips was crowned as king. His court consisted of Albert Cobos, first runner-up; Javier Barragan, second runner-up; Sal Chavez, third runner-up; and Richard Hernandez, fourth runner-up.

During the game's halftime show, tension mounted as the limousines carrying the future queen and her court arrived. Cheers were heard when Janine Okada, Homecoming Queen of '83 crowned Melinda White. White's court was completed by Dayna Yamable, first runner-up; Marisa Cortes, second runner-up; Annette Estrada, third runner-up; and Monica Ramirez, fourth runner-up.

In a game filled with penalties and let downs, the Spartans appeared to make a game winning touchdown with less than two minutes left to play. The touchdown, however, like their season, was nullified by a penalty. The game was lost, but the spirit lingered on . . .

▶ Homecoming Royalty Melinda White and Tim Phillips beam with pride at the announcement during the halftime ceremony. This is the second year there has been a Homecoming King.

▼ Freshmen Laura Lopez and Robert Lordora skillfully use their toothpicks during the competitions. Once again, the seniors were victorious.

HOMECOMING '84

Halloween

On October 31 at 7:45 a.m., the bell sounded shrilly, the winds echoed throughout C-building, and ghostly ghouls, sexy French waitresses, smiling clowns, and mischievous devils invaded Schurr's classrooms. Such a scene would not occur on any day but Halloween.

A costume contest was held at both lunches by USB for the masqueraders. Winners were determined using a sound meter to measure audience applause. At the contest, costumes ranged from an innocent angel to zoot suits. Other costumes included: Ernie and Bert from Sesame Street, a pair of punk rockers who won first place, an old lady, Cleopatra, a biker, a daisy, and male transvestites. Prizes ranged from $10 to $25.

David Goncharenko, who won first place with his motorcycle rider outfit, said, "It was really funny because none of my teachers recognized me!"

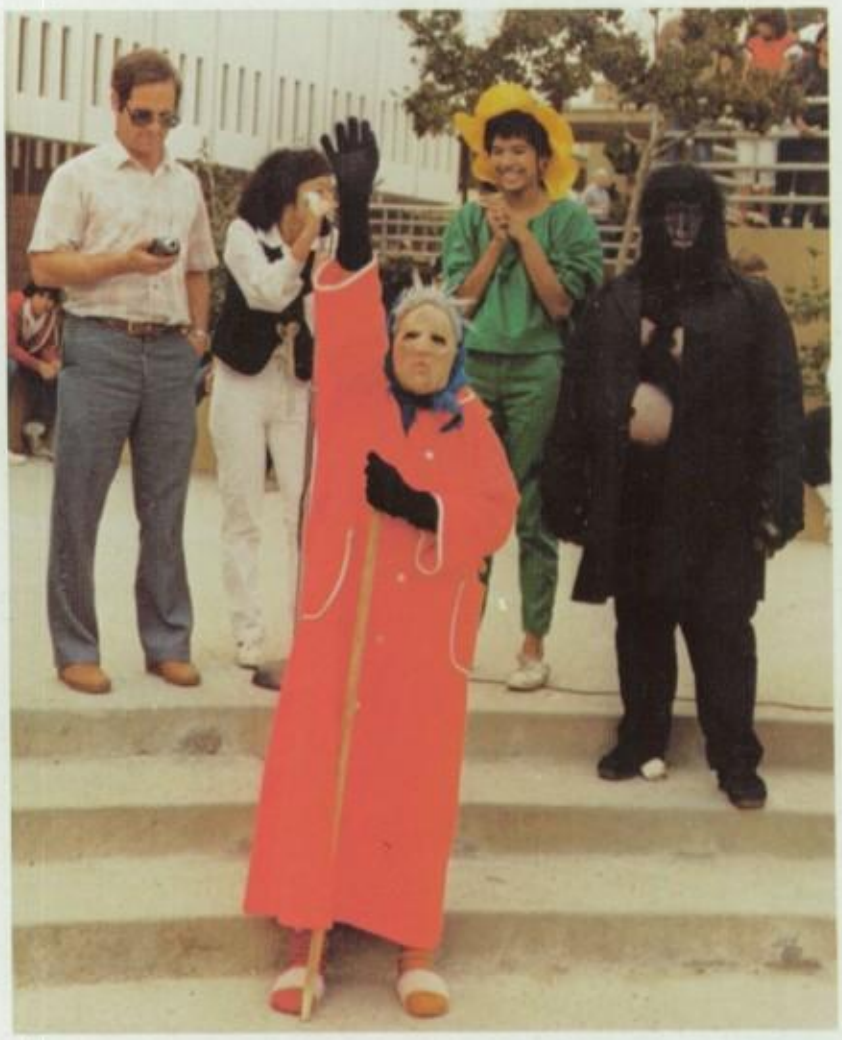
"I'm glad that as many students dressed up as they did. It really shows a lot of spirit on behalf of the student body," said Director of Activities Glenn Sewell.

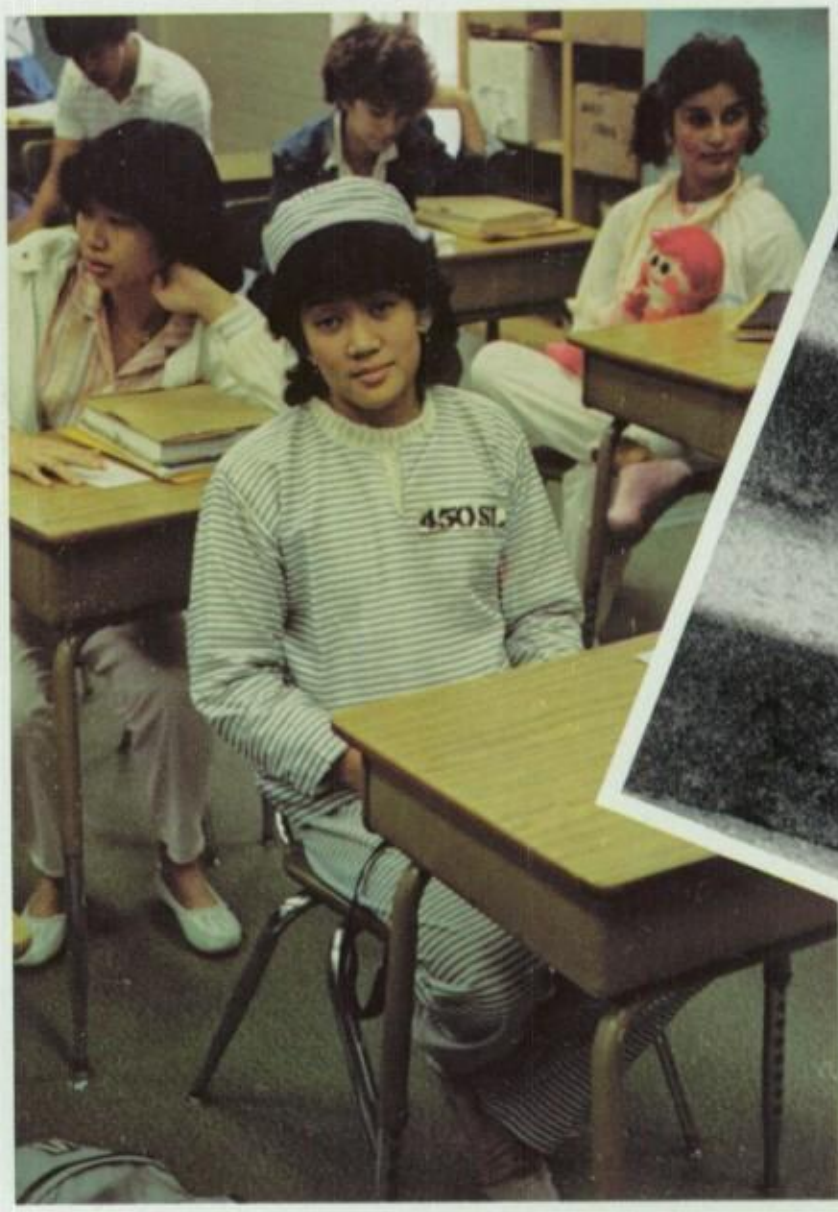
"Overall," added Student Director of Activities, Chris Sakuma, "it turned out really well. I saw a lot of good, original costumes. I especially liked the guys dressed up as girls!"

▲ Luis Herrera displays his "knack" for colors with his apple-green wig. VICA President Herrera often acted as a role model for other VICA members.

▼ As Bertha Rodriguez acknowledges the applause from the costume contest audience, Mr. Glen Sewell, Nerissa Ko, Michelle Ysais and another fellow contestant anxiously await the soundmeter's reading. Some spirit week contests were decided by crowd applause, which was measured by the sound meter Mr. Sewell is holding.

▼▼ Melancholic Aimee To ponders over the thought of spending the next ten years locked in Miss Linda Harris's English class. Unlike Homecoming day, this spirit week dress up day did not have shortened class periods.





▼ Showing off "her" sexy but hairy legs, Chris Sakuma draws a few whistles at the costume contest held at lunch. Although "she" did not win any prizes, "she" thoroughly enjoyed all the attention.

▲ "Chic" Mark Morrone patiently waits for his picture to be taken. Many students wore costumes which exemplified their future career goals.

Just You and I

Taking the theme "Just You and I" from the popular song of the same name, Girls' League once again sponsored the Christmas Ball. This year, for the $15 bid price, couples were given raffle tickets with an opportunity to win a free tuxedo. Wine glasses inscribed with the words "Just You and I" were also given to each person in attendance.

One of the main attractions of the December 15 soireé was the crowning of the Christmas Ball Queen and her court. Chosen as queen was Ivana Covelli. Her court consisted of Senior Princess Denise Sosnowski, Junior Princess April Vigil, Sophomore Princess Christine Oyakawa, and Freshman Princess Dana Lee.

Although they did not wear crowns, Sophomores Roy Sanchez and Chona Claro were coronated as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus. Claro earned this honor by collecting the most money (out of four candidates) in a collection can.

Miss Mary Ann Kaestner, Girls' League adviser, summed up the cherry evening by saying, "The long hours of preparation made this the best Christmas Ball ever; I was really impressed by the elegance of the student attire."

▶ Living it up, John LeNoue dances to the music of Enchantment.

◀ Tired from a night of dancing, Victor Garcia, Lupe Padilla, Michelle Lim, and Kelvin Louie take a rest and watch other couples sway to the music.

▼▼ Oblivious to the crowd around them, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus (Roy Sanchez and Chona Claro) spend some time dancing to "Just You and I."

Schurr Rallies Spartan Spirit

Every Friday during football and basketball season, spirit and enthusiasm were crammed into a fourteen minute interval between first and second periods. These outbursts of loud music and semi-crazy behavior, often held in bone-chilling cold, were called pep rallies.

During each pep rally, audiences were informed of the standings of Schurr's sports teams, treated to strains of the pep band's version of "Taco Mambo," and entertained by skits and inter-class contests.

The very first pep rally had a Christmassy aura around it. Varsity pepsters lined up in twelve groups of two and sang a slightly revised version of "The Twelve Days of Christmas." This song, aimed at the Keppel Aztecs, featured verses ranging from "You better get your rears in gear," to "Don't pick your nose."

For the first time, individual classes were given the opportunities to organize pep rally activities. These rallies let the seniors perform a Hawaiian skit and also let the freshmen set up a pie-in-the-face contest. Other contests were car stuffing, popcorn eating, tug-of-wars, and jug yelling.

During some of the rallies, the drill team showed off new parade routines, members of the color guard whirled their tall flags and various Spartans lip synced the words to popular songs.

After the rallies ended, pepped up Spartans carried their spirit and enthusiasm through the rest of the day.

◀ Encouraging the amphitheater crowd to attend the first league ga of the season, Head Football Coach Ken Davis introduces some of outstanding players.

▲ Taking a much needed breather, freshman Heather Sarni watches others attempt to jam themselves into the car.

▶ Dressed in devilish tails and horns, the varsity pepsters portray evil conscience of Sally Spartan (Lisa Carter), who is being pawed at b "South Pasadena Tiger" (Glenn Suravech).

▶ ▶ A slippery saddle fails to stop Mike Padilla from maintaining control of the basketball and riding down the court.

▶ Alas! The work of a sooper doope pooper scooper is never done.

The student body's two year donkey basketball winning streak was ended this past January when the faculty crushed the unsuspecting students. Upon winning the prestigious title, Mr. Glenn "I-love-the-floor" Sewell was not ecstatic over winning, but instead claimed only to be, "very tired, and extremely sore!"

The first half of the game proved to be an overall even match for both the students and teachers. But, once the game reached the second half, chaos broke out — for the students!

Julie Caracol, a player for the student body, stated "I couldn't believe the faculty actually beat us! I was really surprised, because I had expected the students to come through with no problem!"

Unfortunately for the students, this was not the case. Teacher after teacher began to rack up points. Top scorers for the faculty included Coaches Rick Ronquillo and Steve Terry.

On the students' side, Mike Padilla, Billy Cramer and Danny Muro shared the title of most points scored for the game.

After the long and grueling two hour game period was finished, Terry remarked "After a two year drought, it was a pleasant and refreshing change to put the students in their place." Terry also foresees "a long winning streak by the faculty due to a lack of talent on the student team!"

Caracol, however, disagreed with Terry, saying, "All the students needed this year was a big shock . . . and we got it!! Next year I think the students will pull together and be more of a team because we'll know what to expect!" Sewell on the other hand doesn't believe skill has anything to do with winning. Sewell acknowledges that, "It all depends on how the donkeys buck!!"

Schurr's sentimental Driver's Education teacher, Mr. Mando Marentes, summed up this year's donkey basketball best by saying, "It was the happiest moment in my life! Nothing else will ever compare to it!"

Homecoming II: A Schurr Victory

Preceding this year's Basketball Homecoming game was the annual spirit week. Highlights from the week included a tug-of-war in which the seniors triumphed over all classes, a legs contest involving the teachers, and the usual activities held during Homecoming.

"I think that this year's spirit week was the best ever," remarked junior Julie Caracol. "Everyone participated and showed real pride in our school."

Junior Mark Arciaga had the same thoughts. "Everyone showed great enthusiasm, it may have even helped us win the game that night."

Indeed it could have. Schurr had a see-saw victory over the Alhambra Moors later on Homecoming night. The battle for victory was fierce during the first half of the game. Schurr had the lead; Schurr lost the lead; Schurr had the lead; Schurr lost the lead; and so it went until the half, when Schurr didn't have the lead.

The Spartans had control in the second half. The lead was taken by Schurr and was never given up. The Moors fell prey to Schurr's brilliant offense and were left as game losers — Schurr had won its Homecoming game.

After the stunning performance at Byer's gymnasium, students quickly raced to the small gym to attend the annual Homecoming dance. Students found this to be a great way to top off the evening.

"It was a great dance!" remarked junior Cindy Imanaka. "We had a great time together! This was one of the better dances of the year," stated junior Eddy Chan.

Despite the bad weather, Spirit Week, according to students, proved to be one of the most successful in recent years.

Spartans Rock Night Away

▲ With the excitement in the air, Lettie Hernandez and Bernard Taesali sway to the music of Ultimate Expressions.

▼ A romantic song lets Michelle Ysais relax and dance as she thinks about the rest of the evening.

Loud music. The thunder of hundreds of dancing feet. Throngs of chattering voices. Dim lights and colorful streamers, banners and balloons. Fun, serious or romantic companionship of friends. These were all of the characteristics of the dances held this year.

Starting off the social calendar was the Ice Breaker Dance. Traditionally sponsored by the Senior Class, this September dance featured the music of Ultimate Expressions.

The Senior Class made over $2,000 by selling tickets and sodas to the dancers. "The purpose was kind of as a welcoming to the school and the new year. It was successful because we did what we wanted to do," commented Class of '85 President Dahni Tsuboi.

Ultimate Expressions provided the music for another dance, the Black and White, sponsored by the band.

The band held this November dance because, according to Band President Ruby Liao, "We were just thinking of a way to make some money." The Black and White Dance brought in about $2,000 towards the music makers' funds.

Other dances held this year included the Sadie Hawkins in March and the Junior Class sponsored Prom in June.

◀ Taking some time off the dance floor, Anorrak Luangpinth and Socheata Chhieng get some fresh air.

▲ As the music starts, Spartans move onto the dance floor to start off their evening.

The Official Spartan Guide

Along with the new faces, each new school year brings with it the latest fashions, fads and trends. This year, Schurr's enrollment was higher than it had ever been before.

With 2600+ students, there should be at least a few who exhibited the traits of typical Spartans, right? Wrong. Every one of those 2600+ teenagers expressed different personalities, interests and aspirations. Some were heavy metal, others new wave; most were short, a few were tall; some were easy going, others were tense.

According to a survey conducted by the Spectrum staff, the typical Spartan's favorite musical group was Prince, followed by Duran Duran and General Public.

Prince reigned again when Spartans chose his "Purple Rain" as their favorite album.

Among visual entertainment, Spartans preferred Eddie Murphy's "Beverly Hills Cop" over Prince's "Purple Rain." "The Cosby Show" was barely able to edge out "Three's a Crowd" as the favorite television show.

On a more appetizing note, pizza dominated as the typical Spartan's favorite food, while chocolate chip and Rocky Road were the most delectible ice cream flavors.

As each school year ends, most of the students leave home and go on some sort of vacation. This year, over eighty percent of the polled Spartans dreamed of traveling to the Hawaiian islands during their summer vacations.

The above only represents a small sampling of Spartan favorites. No two Spartans were exactly the same. Life was actually more interesting with this variety of students. By combining different moods, atmospheres and interests, however, a reasonable facsimile of the typical Spartan could be made . . .

Special thanks are given to senior Gary Chavez and sophomore Karen Tse for their cooperation and patience in the depiction of the "Typical Spartan."

CLASS
Consciousness

Class consciousness. By definition, it is knowing your place and position. The organizations on campus provide students with an opportunity to find their position with other students with similar interests. Organizations are the school's class consciouness.

In the large groups, such as band, drill team, and pepsters, students can enjoy promoting spirit and being actively involved in school. Other organizations are suited for scholars and speakers. California Scholarship Federation and the National Honor Society are just two clubs for academically minded students. For more athletic students, clubs such as varsity and ski club give students a chance to find other sports-minded classmates.

No matter what interests a student may have, he can find his place and position in one of the school's many organizations. The variety and diversity of the numerous clubs can be the class consciousness of any student.

Pep Band/Band

The Mighty Schurr Spartan Band sure pulled it off this year. They started off their year in the summer by helping out the Olympic Committee with the construction work at the Coliseum. Most of the players volunteered their summer time to perform for the Olympic Band of 1984. Then, after a hard pre-season and a hundred push-ups daily, they took on two parades in one day, Montebello's and Azusa's. At Azusa, the band came in second place with a superior score of 93.3.

Two weeks later, they were off to Mission Viejo's Band Review, where they took home third place in everything. Color guards, band unit and drum major, David Muro, all went home with trophies in their hands.

A week after, they marched in their major parade of the year, Arcadia's Band Review. There, the band came home with the fourth place trophy. Most of them had doubts of even placing in that parade, but some still had faith, like junior member Glenn Takahashi who said, "We did all we could with what we had." It hit them by surprise when they announced that the band had tied in 4th place with Granite Hills.

They performed in Band Spectacular along with Montebello and Bell Gardens. Then, on December 22nd, the band and drill team entertained the crowds at Disneyland. They also tried out for the 1986 Rose Parade.

As for what the band thought of the year, sophomore member Koichi Matsumoto said, "It started out a slow year, but then we picked up speed in the end."

Fulfilling its responsibility to raise school spirit, this year's Pep Band played such hits as "Ghostbusters" and "Gremlin Rag" at away football games and pep rallies.

Still, old traditions had to be maintained. Pep tunes like "The Sons of Westwood" and "Taco Mambo" have been played at Schurr for many years. And not to be forgotten are the chants that can be heard at performances. "Cacawhatae" and "We're Not Gonna Take It" certainly come to mind.

"To be in Pep Band, you have to be a respected band member as well as a good player," said sophomore Rubin Avitia. Senior Takeru Okamoto said, "Pep Band brings out the best qualities of its members." He added, "Too bad I have to leave this year."

Coming up the hard way

"The Schurr drill team is a very dedicated and hardworking group of girls," stated Debbie Richter, three-year adviser of the team.

Led by Captain Dawn Tapia, co-captain Stephanie Medina, choreographer Veronica Candelas, and sergeant-at-arms Kathy Atchison, the drill team strived to improve itself. When asked how good she thought the drill team really was, Richter said, "The team is good, but it's never good enough."

At the beginning of the year, there were a lot of new members who did not really know much about the drills, but after the hard summer workout, which was twice a week for three hours, the girls caught on very well. Richter stated, "This year's drill team members, although weak at the start, have been dedicated and working out so hard that they have caught up, and even surpassed some of the past years' drill teams." Illustrating its hard work, the drill team received a third place award at Arcadia and a fourth place award at Mission Viejo.

Tapia, the team captain, said, "Being a captain is really challenging and tough, but also fun." When asked what a captain really does, Tapia answered, "The captain is someone who is experienced and understands the functions of the drill team. I call meetings, suggest fundraisers, and supervise drills; but, basically I'm a friend to all the girls."

Kristi Atchison said, "The leaders really work us out and sometimes even make us go down for pushups, but only if we goof off too much. It's also a lot of fun, like we have a "Wheaties Award," which is an award for the girl that smiles the most and shows lot of spirit. This year it was given to Susan Chon."

When asked how the drill team gets along, Chon said, "We really have a lot of fun together. We're like a really close family where everybody helps each other out. It's also a lot of hard work, but when we go out and perform, it really pays off."

▲ Flashing their smiles, the captains show their drill team spirit. The fight tea captains are Kathy Atchison, Dawn Tapia, Veronica Candelas and Stephanie Lope
◀ This year's graduating seniors Pearl Maldonado, Alice Del Rio, Elva Quintero, L Garcia, Kathy Atchison, and Dawn Tapia have been strong contributors to the spirit the drill team.

▼ Striving for perfection, Diana Stone marches in the Montebello Royale Parade. The drill team practiced ceaselessly in preparation for their parades.

▼ During a pep rally, the drill team performs a routine, choreographed to the S.H.S. Fight Song. The routine for the fight song was a long time tradition.

Pepsters

Long, hot hours were spent after school and during the summer practicing and perfecting cheers and routines. The underclass cheerleaders can be proud of their accomplishments. All this dedication has been displayed at pep rallies and at football halftimes. One spectator commented, "Their spirit really shows when it comes down to cheering for the home team. That's what a good football game needs; pretty cheerleaders."

It is not easy being a cheerleader. For them to be good, it takes a lot of balance and coordination as well as a lot of energy.

Spending most of their time working together, many of the girls have become close friends. Heather Sarni commented, "Being a cheerleader has been a great experience for me. This past year has been filled with a lot of memories, but the thing I will remember most was the many new friends I made."

▲ Cheering the varsity football on to victory, Esther Escobar, Sandy Cornejo, Danny Cavazos and Nancy Hagiwara show the other team who's mber one. Although they did not perform at varsity games, underclass pepsters still supported the team from the bleachers.
Showing off a new competition routine are the Varsity cheerleaders. Both varsity squads entered cheerleading competitions for the very first time.

Pepsters

"Being a member of the Schurr High School Pepsters was a demanding and rewarding experience," commented Raquel Duarte, a senior in the Varsity Songleader squad. During the summer, the Varsity Yells, Songleaders, and Cheerleaders attended the U.S.A. camp (United Spirit Association). There they learned new routines, practiced rigorously, and even performed many routines. The routines that were learned at the camp were used in performances given in various competitions.

The Songleaders have attended competitions at Blair High School, Arroyo High School, and even Magic Mountain where they received many awards for their well choreographed and executed routines. "The Songleaders have done an exceptionally good job this year, proving that hard work and practice does pay-off," said Ms. Cornejo, the pepster adviser.

The Varsity Cheerleaders have also competed in many competitions. They were invited to Hubbard's Cheerleaders Competition, Greenville Competition in North Carolina, Los Alamitos, and also to Magic Mountain.

A fairly new squad has been added to the pepsters. The Varsity Yell consists of four guys who are able to do additional cheers and mounts. Their help is appreciated very much by the Varsity Cheerleaders in performing difficult pyramids and other formations. Mike Sakamoto commented, "At first, we were all a little nervous, but after awhile it got to be a lot of fun."

Carolers Enchant Audiences

Starting off the year with a new teacher, the two choir classes, A Capella and Beginning, also got a new lease on life; "I think it (the choir) is much improved over last year. I think Miss Berg has a lot of energy and I think in a year or two it will develop as it used to be a few years ago," observed Vocal Ensemble member David Brownstein.

Miss Jenepher Berg, the energetic lady herself, exclaimed, "Music is very demanding!" During the year, she taught the students to "strive for the quality of tone sounds and also the quality of music education."

Through the year, the Beginning group, consisting of 20 freshmen, and the A Cappella class, 32 members strong, staged many activities and shows. During the Christmas season, they caroled around the school and in shopping malls, and also performed in a winter concert with the band held on December 18.

The remainder of the year was spent putting on a Pop Music concert and a Major Works concert. They also toured the area singing and spreading their warmth.

To help support themselves financially, the groups held cookie fundraisers, gift item sales and car washes.

All of these activities may sound time-consuming and demanding, but the singers managed to make this a successful and enjoyable year. Junior Brian To summed up the class by saying, "It (A Capelle Choir) is an easy 'A' if you are willing to work really hard!"

Girls' League

▼ Girls' League members wore T-shirts promoting the Christmas Ball then "Just You and I."

For the sixth consecutive year, Girls' League was one of the largest and most active clubs on campus. With the support and confidence of their advisers, Mary Ann Kaestner and Julia Morita, they produced a fun-filled year for many students.

The organization kicked off this year by holding their third annual Wake-a-Thon on September 21. Closely following was Homecoming, when the girls sold mums and lemonade. On December 15, the club sponsored the romantic Christmas Ball; this year's theme was "Just You and I."

In February, the girls sold Val-O-Grams for Valentine's Day. On March 2, the members sponsored the Sadie Hawkins Dance. A new event this year was the Father-Daughter picnic held in April. Closely following this was the annual Mother-Daughter Brunch.

Leading this year's club were President Rochelle Ramirez, Vice President Sylvia Rubalcava, Secretary Raquel Duarte and Treasurer Jackie Borja.

Summing up the year, Miss Kaestner commented, "We did some totally awesome things this year. I'm just blown away by the enthusiasm of the girls this year!"

Andrew Sanchez said, "I appreciate the

not to be afraid of computers."

Treasurer Mona Wu said, "The club has a very friendly and relaxed atmosphere about it. It's a great way to meet new people and make new friends."

Among the 35 members, only a few are girls, but Sharon Chung expects that to change. She commented, "I think that a lot of girls are afraid to join because they think that the club has no girls in it at all!"

Advised by Mr. Carrol Green, the members of the Sound Crew are Gerry Hughes, Marc Mittelman, Joe Chen, Danny Trolia, and Alejandro Tirado.

Marc Mittelman, a member for four years, is the upperclassman in charge of the rest of the members. He commented, "I get a sense of satisfaction from taking this class. It gives me a feeling of responsibility and knowing I got the job done."

Mittelman's successor, Joe Chen, a recent addition to the crew stated, "Working with different types of sound systems gives us a great deal of technical training."

Carwashes, Culpeppers and Competitions

Starting off the school year with four returning editors and a large, experienced staff, the Spartan Scroll produced 14 bi-weeklies available to students and teachers free of charge.

In addition to selling their traditional Helen Grace Christmas chocolates and Culpeppers popcorn, the journalists were required to turn in three articles per six-week grading period and sign in at least three times a week.

"I've been in journalism since my freshman year and I think that I have gained a lot of valuable experience by interviewing people and writing articles," commented senior Karen Sanchez, managing editor.

Highlighting the year for the Scrollers were a state convention at Disneyland in October and a national convention held in April in Seattle. At each convention, the journalists attended workshops to help improve their writing skills or gain new ideas and techniques.

Selected journalists also traveled to nearby Montebello High School to win sweepstakes in the Eastern Los Angeles Journalism Education Association write-offs in March. Those who placed in that competition advanced to the Southern California write-offs held in April at Walnut High School.

Summing up the year, Editor-in-Chief Steven Chu stated, "I think the fact that we had a lot of experienced staff members really helped us in competition and in meeting our deadlines."

▶▲▲ Mrs. Lorrie Wellenstein lectures on the "five W's and one H" of journalism to first year students. Aside from being Spartan Scroll adviser, Mrs. Wellenstein also taught Algebra and American Literature AE.

Against All Odds

The odds were against it working. The Spectrum staff started out with only seven members and, with the exception of editor Nerissa Ko, none had any experience working on a high school yearbook. Even the adviser, Ms. Linda Harris, was new to the work of producing a yearbook. By second semester, twelve members had been added to the staff, and by working long, hard hours, they met their deadlines.

"This was a tough year for the staff. Almost everyone had never worked on a yearbook before, but all their hard work and dedication made this book possible," said Ko.

Explaining how so much work got done, Gina Shishima said, "People do more than they think they do." Added Julie Park, "When a deadline was due everyone went crazy rushing around."

"I think it was worth all the work. These are books that I think the students are going to enjoy for many years, so all of the suffering the staff endured is going to pay off," commented Harris. "While we were working late into the nights to meet some of our deadlines, I wondered if it was all worth it, but when people see the finished product, I think that our hard work will really show," added Karen Kawasaki.

Commenting on the year, Richard Katekawa said, "The yearbook is an extremely demanding job. Everyone on staff deserves a party!"

In Harmony

For many students, Campus Life has become more than just a Bible study group. During its weekly meetings, students can take a break for a little spiritual uplift. Many feel this helps them improve their attitude toward life, giving them a more optimistic outlook.

Mr. Walter Witt, one of the advisors of the program, when asked if he thought Campus Life is a good program, replied, "Absolutely! We have a lot of kids that go, so they must like it."

Senior Christine Diaz, a member of Campus Life for four years, says, "It helped me to learn more about the Bible and it has helped me get by in school." She adds, "It's a place where we encourage people."

The Campus Life organization has gone on picnics and a few hiking trips for the year. More than just a religious school group, it's an organization where students learn how to deal with the best things in life; to find their inner souls and feelings towards life.

Last year, the Vocal Ensemble was on the verge of extinction due to a lack of members. But since then they have survived and made a comeback. This year they gained Ms. Jenepher Berg as their director and become one of the more active groups on campus. The members rehearse regularly and all their hard work has paid off. They were busy making guest appearances at Eastmont Intermediate, Macy Intermediate, La Cresenta High School and other locations. The group has also gained local recognition working with various local orchestras.

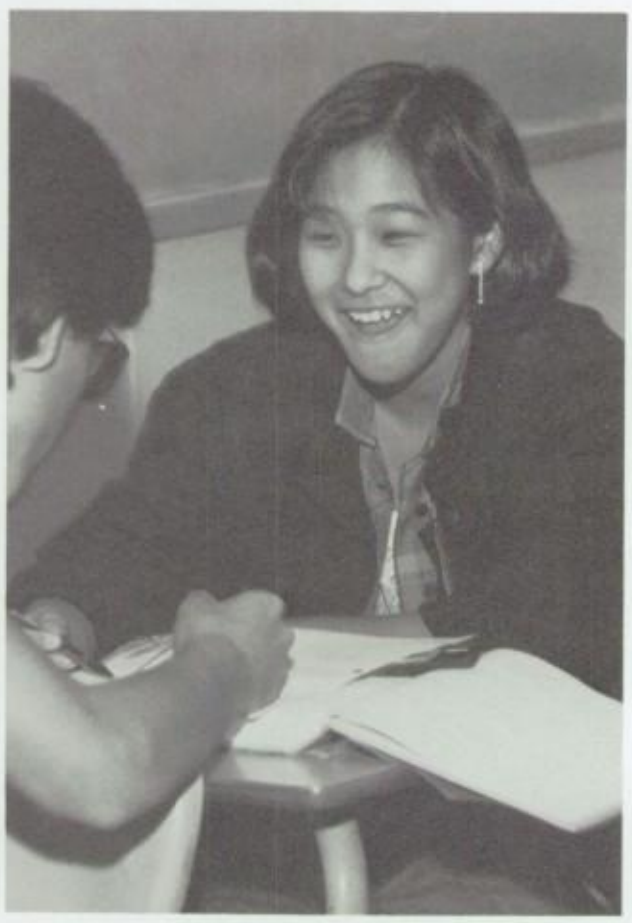
▲ Reminiscing on her past years at Schurr, N.H.S. President, Elai Imai, looks forward to her senior year in high school.

Making the Grade

Unlike at some other schools in the area, academic clubs have attracted as much attention as social clubs. Two examples are California Scholarship Federation, the largest campus organization, and the recently formed National Honor Society.

Again using their motto of "Scholarship for Service," CSF planned another activity-filled year. The group, headed by President Steven Chu and advisors Ms. Ella Wing and Mr. Robert Vrablik, held meetings on the first Monday of every month.



During the year, CSF participated in a jump-ropathon for the American Heart Association and sold Christmas carnations.

New on the application forms was the B-point scale. Previously, grades of A were worth three points, while B's were worth only one point.

A cumulative total of ten points is required for membership. On the new system, a B in an honors or AP designated course was worth two points.

In its first full year, the National Honor Society quickly worked to achieve its goal, one service project per semester. Headed by President Elaine Imai, the scholars organized a Christmas visitation to McClerran Hall, a home for underpriveledged children. This informal visit gave the students a chance to bring Christmas cheer, and distribute presents.

Second semester began with the initiation of new members, either juniors or seniors, selected by a panel of seven faculty advisers. Like CSF, NHS adopted the extra point system for AP classes. In addition, prospective members needed a 3.5 GPA and two letters of recommendation.

U.S.B./Finance Office

Students Serve School

Advised by Mr. Glenn Sewell, both the United Student Body and the Finance Office worked to serve the students and faculty of Schurr.

The USB was once again challenged with planning the year's activities. With President Cindy Quan at the helm, the officers set out to organize an eventful Football Homecoming. Next on their agenda was a semi-formal Sweetheart's Ball, but plans for this event were cancelled. The officers then put their effort into Basketball Homecoming. A new addition to this traditional event was the building of miniature floats to parade at halftime. Another popular USB sponsored event was the faculty luncheon. The teachers looked forward to the buffet given by the students in band, pepsters, and government.

The Finance Office was invaluable resource for many during the school year. Nearly everything from notebook paper to dance tickets could be bought here. Even teachers needing quick change for lunch would be greeted by the students working with Mr. Sewell.

Varsity Club

Varsity Club's 10th year a good one

Celebrating its tenth anniversary, the Varsity Club has once again brought together many of Schurr's outstanding lettermen.

Since its induction in 1974, the 37-member club has grown to encompass an increasing number of female athletes. This year's president was Diana Kadekien, assisted by Vice-President Bobby Jordan and Secretary Michelle Lim.

Under the advisement of Mr. Ron Pruitt, the Varsity Club participated in the annual Donkey Basketball Game. Trying to extend their two year winning streak, the members were determined and confident. But, the faculty put an end to all hopes of a three year sweep by defeating the students.

One unfortunate occurance this year was the loss of the traditional Dunking Booth. Member Grace Naito summed up the feelings of the lettermen, "We were looking forward to dunking someone this year, but there's always next year!"

Birth and Rebirth

With a common interest in games such as Advanced Dungeons and Dragons, a group of students banded together to form a new club called Gaming Masters. Under the adviser-ship of Mrs. Harbison, members were very enthusiastic about the games they played. Vice-President Ernie Sanches stated, "Gaming Masters helps you to expand your knowledge." Commented Larry Yao, "It's a mental sport that doesn't require physical strength." For Basketball Homecoming, they sold rice balls and teriyaki to raise money for more pieces to Dungeons and Dragons.

After being resurrected from the dead, Beyond Terra has returned to fulfill its purpose: have fun while enjoying its common interest in science-fiction and fantasy.

Advised by Ms. Kelsey and led by President Kathy Sasaki, Vice-President Lisa Itamura, Secretary Karen Tse, and Treasurer Charise Hashiba, Beyond Terra sold Halloween Grams to raise funds for trips to the observatory, sci-fi conventions, and sci-fi movies. "Beyond Terra got its name when the original members wanted the club's name to be 'out of this world.' Along the way, the name 'Beyond Terra' was brought up and the name has stayed ever since," explained member Carrie Afuso.

Other club activities included playing Dungeons and Dragons as well as selling their trademark green cookies.

Friends of the Library/V.I.C.A.

Expanding Horizons

Although both clubs strive for excellence, the members of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America tried to familiarize themselves with different jobs while the members of the Friends of the Library struggled to shed their image of being media aides.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (V.I.C.A.) is made up by students in woodshop, metal shop, drafting, and auto mechanics. Advisers who helped plan the year's activities were Mr. David Traeger, Mr. Caroll Green, Mr. William Gray, and Mr. Walter Witt.

President Luis Herrera commented, "V.I.C.A. strives for excellence. It is a great organization because it opens your horizon on what jobs are available." Treasurer Dalilah Madrigal continued, "It helps you associate with the type of career you wish to choose." Secretary Lorena Granados summed it up and said that "V.I.C.A. is a good way to associate and compete with other students majoring in the same field."

Unlike V.I.C.A., members in Friends of the Library do not have to be enrolled in certain classes to make the club. Also, President Mona Wu stated that "Friends of the Library members do not always read books as some students assume." They encourage students to take advantage of the opportunity to help others.

The club raised money this year by selling Pepperbellies and after-mid-term Balloon-O-Grams. With the money raised, they bought cabinets for the school library and donated money to the Ethiopian relief effort.

Coming Back . . .

After a year of dormancy, Junior Statesmen of America seemed destined to become another forgotten club, but, with the encouragement of former President Roy E. Gondo, a few J.S.A. siblings revived the club complete with a new adviser and a new chapter name.

The Schurr High Chapter of J.S.A., formerly "The Pessimist's Club," was advised by Mrs. Suzanne Stuart and lead by President Lisa Itamura, Vice-President Karen Tse, Secretary Jessica Huang, Treasurer Carrie Afuso, and Historian Monique Fung. Members participated in debates, mock-simulations, and local conventions sponsored by the Junior State Foundation. Through bake sales and a daisy sale at the Sadie Hawkins Dance, member were able to attend most of the conventions at a reduced rate.

The highlight of the year was the Spring State Convention held in May at the Westin South Coast Plaza Hotel. Indicating a reason for J.S.A.'s success, President Lisa Itamura stated, "One thing about J.S.A. is that you get a chance to meet members from other chapters." Secretary Jessica Huang added, "They also have a chance to take a stand on issues that they believe in during the debates."

With a relatively small number of returning members, the Speech Team proved that it is quality and not quantity that counts. Lacking a coach at the beginning of the year, they overcame this deficiency when Coach Peter Fong returned. They went on to capture top spots at many of the speech tournaments. With speakers like Camille Sun, president of the team and also a triple-qualifier for the State Speech Competition, and other top speakers such as Ruby Liao, Naomi Chan, Julie Shiroishi, Camille Romero, Karen Sanchez, and Richard Rivas, Schurr proved to be a tough adversary with only San Marino standing in its way.

Catering Tacos and Escargot

Two of the more recently formed clubs at Schurr were the French and the Spanish Clubs, which catered to the students' love of foreign cultures and languages.

The Spanish Club, advised by Ms. Olquin, is led by Alice Ong, president; Susan Nakaoka, vice-president; Julie Park, secretary; and Mona Wu, treasurer. Under Ong's leadership, the club held many fundraisers, including a gram sale during Christmas. They also held bake sales and sold candy apples during Basketball Homecoming. They visited Olvera Street to explore Spanish culture near the end of the year.

The French Club, advised by Mrs. Linda Nunez, held many bake sales as well. Through the strong leadership of Jayson Kim, president; Ela Tsang, vice-president; and Raymond Wong, secretary, the French Club managed to raise money for the starving people of Ethiopia, the explosion victims in Mexico, and the Bhopal chemical accident victims. They also raised money by selling soda during Football Homecoming and at the Sadie Hawkins Dance as well as sponsoring an off-campus fundraiser at Shakey's.

The club members combined their appreciation of French and Spanish culture, but also had fun and contributed to charity.

Asia Club/Voyagers

East Meets West

Although they seem like two very different organizations, Asia Club and Voyagers have one thing in common; they enjoy having fun.

Asia Club, unlike other cultural clubs, has a more social climate. Members enjoyed participating in numerous fundraisers like selling pizza, skittles, and pretzels at Homecoming. Led by co-presidents Dayna Yamabe, and Steve Moriyasu, the members also enjoyed their ski trip at Big Bear.

The Voyagers had a big trip to look forward to this summer. Under the auspices of Mr. David Lebow, the members planned an excursion to numerous European countries ending with a cruise to Greece.

Art Ink/Photography Club

"We're in the Money . ."

Two clubs, the long-established Photography Club and the newly-formed Art Ink, were active fundraisers on campus this past year.

Art Ink completed many activities for a newly-formed group. They entered the Women's Series Review contest at the L.A. County Fair in September, decorated Christmas trees in December, and sold Valentine Balloon-o-Grams in February. They also sold pictures of rock stars throughout the year.

Photography club held fundraisers to finance their summer 1985 trip to Europe. September's heat spell kicked off their shaved ice sale, and when an unusually cold and windy winter hit, club members bundled up to sell hot chocolate before school and during nutrition. Lulu Wong explained, "I'm really looking forward to seeing and photographing the beautiful sites in Europe." They also found time between fundraisers to visit Yosemite National Park.

Service is Key to Interaction

Students show their concern by helping out the community through the Key Club and the Interact Club. One thing that the two clubs have in common are that they both service the community.

Headed by advisor Mr. David Lebow, the Key Club tries to manage one service project and one social project each month. Members of this Kiwanis supported club got together during Christmas, at the Montebello Park and decorated Christmas trees to be donated to senior citizens and needy families.

Being a newly formed club, they weren't able to do as much as they would like to have, but planned many fundraisers and social outings during the last part of the year, like trips to a game show and the mountains.

The long established Interact Club, advised by Mr. Mike Lopez, conducted many fundraisers and service activities during the year. They held their annual blood drive in October. It was followed by a button booth for spirit day. During Christmas, they made food baskets and distributed them to senior citizens and needy families. They also held a canned food drive and sponsored a contest in order to get others involved. Unlike the Key Club, this club is open to all students who are willing to put in a little generous effort to service their community.

Class Act. These two words best describe the athletic department and sports teams at Schurr. We are fortunate to have some of the best coaches and athletes in the area. Their determination and dedication bring pride and prominence to our School. The numerous accolades, titles, and awards show that our teams are winners. Yet, it is not the winning seasons that distinguish our athletic teams as a class act. It is their perseverance, pride and sportsmanship that show class. Regardless of whether a team goes to CIF or captures the league title, the hours at practice and the total effort given in each game are the components of a winning team. Even after a loss, our pride remains and the team can accept defeat with true sportsmanship. All these qualities are embodied in every team and make them truly a class act.

Varsity Football

Well, Maybe Next Year...

If a student is an "A" student, he probably gets "A's" on his tests; if a runner can run 26 miles, he can probably run a marathon; if a football team wins two consecutive league titles, the next year's team will probably make it to the CIF playoffs. Wrong.

After the loss of several key players at graduation, this year's varsity football team had shoes bigger than it could fill. Head Coach Ken Davis said, "The easiest thing is to play with a team that loses. As for us, we've kinda spoiled our fans."

Senior Gary Chavez said, "People expected us to be like last year's team, but we weren't."

The Spartans, led by Coach Davis, Coach Arnie Futagaki, and Coach Casey O'Gorman, compiled a 1-4 record in league, beating Alhambra with a last-second field goal. Their pre-season record was more impressive as they beat Santa Fe and South Pasadena.

"I thought we would have done better than we did. Pride and tradition of being a Spartan should've helped carry us through (the season), but it didn't," commented Coach Davis.

The year was marked not only by bad luck, but bad calls, injuries, numerous penalties, changes in line-up, and lack of an intense, team-oriented drive.

Coach Davis added, "This was a team not able to overcome adversity. Other teams overcame it; this team let it destroy it."

All-League linebacker Sal Chavez agreed, "We gave up too many big plays, and we ourselves didn't get enough."

Overall, certain players played well; four players received All-League distinctions. They include: Ray Flores — first team, guard; Mike Padilla — first team, defensive back; Jose Alvarez — second team, guard; Sal Chavez — second team, tight end and linebacker.

"I'm just glad it's over," concluded Coach Davis.

Underclassmen Shine With Victories

Throughout the season the sophomore football team proved that hard work, determination, and team spirit win games. The team ended its season with a 4-1 league record, capturing second place in the Foothill League.

These underclass Spartans were attacked by Tigers, Wildcats, and Moors, but they came out victorious each time. The sideline cheering, the long, hot hours of practice, and the will to win were what led the Spartans to their second place finish.

Head Coach Ben Negrete said, "I'm proud of how the team performed all year. I think these players have a bright future, and I hope to see them on the varsity team next year."

Gerald Leal, who was awarded the Most Valuable Player Award, will undoubtedly be a positive factor in Spartan football in the years to come. In the last game of the season, Leal broke the record for rushing yardage and touchdown scoring. His teammates Travis Nease and Charles Solares were awarded with the Best Defense Award, and Armando Hernandez and James Rodriguez received the Best Offense Award.

By capturing the Foothill League title, the Spartan freshman football team proved to be more than the "punky, little" image usually given to underclassmen. With a strong, impressive defense and much dedication, the freshmen were able to end the season undefeated, with only two losses during pre-season.

Guided by Head Coach Ron Pruitt, the Spartans improved each week to earn the title "League Champions." Having an excellent season, the defense only gave up a total of 44 points in nine games. Consistently playing well throughout the season were right tackle Raphael Bravo and linebacker Robert Fierro. Although the offense had a slow start, it came through when it was needed.

Fierro was named the Most Valuable Player. Starting on both the offensive and defensive teams, he was a main contributor to the team. In the championship game, Fierro ran for a 90-yard touchdown.

Pruitt states, "The team, emphasizing each and everyone, played well."

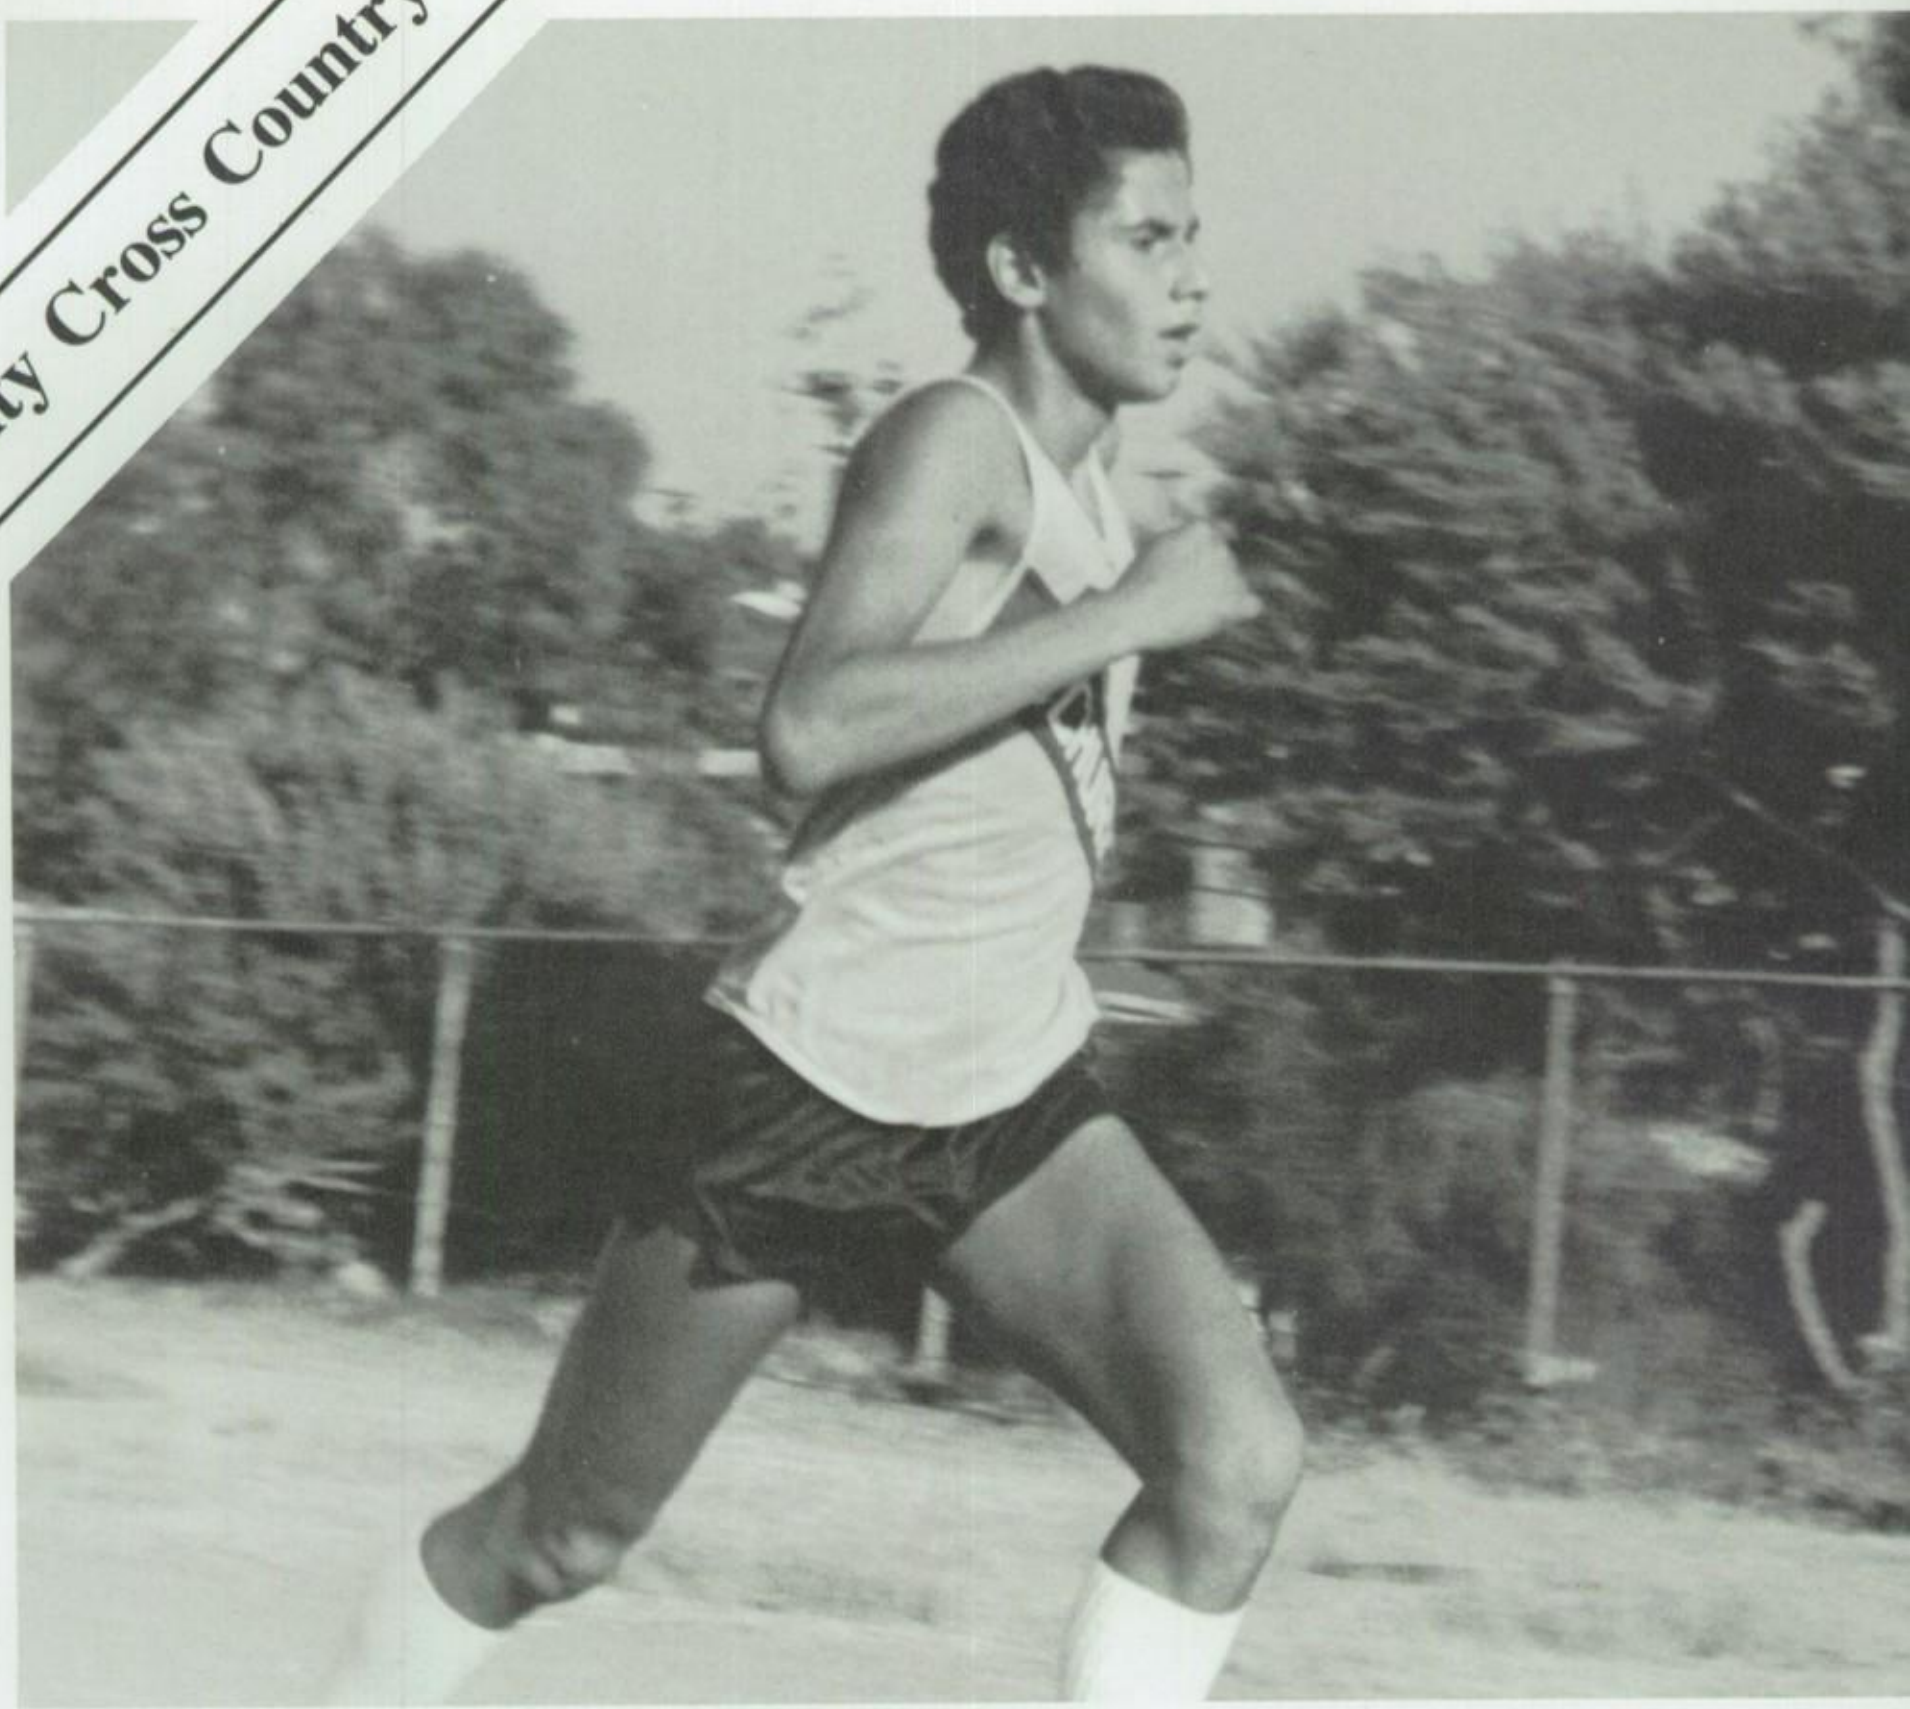
Varsity Cross Country



Harriers Run One Game Short

At each cross country meet, the boys' varsity cross country team ran stronger and better. This season the team was only seconds away from a CIF berth.

The team effort resulted in a 2-3 league record and fourth place at league finals. A few places at league finals would have sent the team to CIF. Captain Gabriel Macias placed seventh overall and took All-League honors, second team.

Coach Mando Marentes said, "This team had a lot of running talent." Steve Macias remarked, "We ran hard all season to make it a successful one."

Awards were garnered by Gabriel Macias, Most Valuable Player; Steve Macias, Coaches' Award; and Abel Orozco, Most Inspirational.

Racing at its peak, the girls' varsity cross country team placed second at league finals to earn a CIF berth. Julie Caracol placed eighth and received Second Team All-League honors.

In the CIF Prelims, seven girls competed; they were co-captains Caracol and Stefanie Scarborough, Lorraine Castro, Pat Gomez, Isabel Padilla, Carolyn Peralta, and freshman Lisa Roybal. Despite extensive practices, the team came up one place short from qualifying for the CIF Finals. The varsity team finished fifth in its race.

Coach Mando Marentes stated, "This is the hardest working group of girls I have ever coached. These girls have dedicated their time since summer practices to make this season a success."

At the end of the season, special awards went to: Caracol, Most Valuable Player; Scarborough, Most Inspirational and Gomez, Coaches' Award.

JV Cross Country

Girls Take Title

Having some difficulty in league, the boys' junior varsity cross country team ended its season with a 1-4 league record and a fifth place finish at league finals.

Leading the JV team, sophomore Glenn Sabey finished ninth overall at league finals and took Second Team All-League honors.

Coach Mando Marentes remarked, "This team did a real good job by steadily improving their times every meet. The boys ran their best throughout the season."

Sophomore Jason Castillo said, "Our running opponents were tough, but we did not let that get our spirits down. Each meet we made a strong effort to lower our race times."

At awards night, Sabey was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy. Sabey commented, "All of us worked together as a team because when the going gets tough, the Schurr cross country team gets going!"

Teamwork and ambition proved to be the key for the girls' junior varsity cross country team this season. The girls placed first at league finals.

Six Spartans were named to the JV All-League list. First team All-League honors went to freshman Chela Orozco, second place; Jeanine Rios, third place; Dorene Rivera, fourth place; and Judy Lopez, fifth place. Second team All-League honors went to Janice Williams, seventh place; and Lorena Padilla, ninth place.

Coach Mando Marentes exclaimed, "I am very proud of the girls. They worked extremely hard all season." Orozco remarked, "We earned the title 'Foothill League Champions.' "

For her consistency and hard work, Rivera was awarded the Most Valuable Player trophy.

Girls Varsity/JV Tennis

Better Than Ever

Both varsity and junior varsity girls' tennis teams were able to earn 7-3 records in league. Coach Glenn Sewell led the varsity players while first-year coach Pam Huey helped the JV team.

Before the girls' varsity tennis team was able to pass out the party glasses, their party was cut short by a loss to La Canada on Nov. 15, 15-3.

After three years of watching the top three teams from the Foothill League advance to the CIF playoffs, this year's team was able to participate in them after finishing in second place.

Coach Sewell said, "I think when they (players) got second, they felt they really accomplished something. Also, this is the first year we went to CIF in the Foothill League; that's an accomplishment." Number one seeded Margarita Rono agreed, saying that she was "very glad to have made it to CIF."

"It was a lot of fun this year, not only because we made it to CIF, but also because everyone on the team is such close friends," concluded senior Michelle Lim.

With a large team, the JV team was able to garner third place in league. Coach Huey said, "We were with the top two teams all the way, and the race came down to the wire. We had a good chance of winning first."

Junior Nancy Long commented, "We did better than last year, but we could've done better."

Cindy Li also noted that they had improved, and she added that the team "did better than we (the players) thought it would do."

Like father like son, like varsity like junior varsity, both girls' volleyball teams finished their seasons in fourth place.

Missing a CIF berth by one place, the varsity team ended with a 4-6 season record. The team was guided by first-year coach, Stacey Honda, who replaced this year's assistant coch, David Hokyo.

Team captain Alicia Garcia was awarded First Team All-League, while senior Pam To received Second Team All-League honors. Garcia said, "I was really surprised being named to the First Team."

At the sports awards night, Lulu Solis was named Best Defensive Player, and To was named Best Offensive Player.

Coach Honda said, "I'd like to thank David Hokyo for all of the guidance he's given me. This year was filled with a lot of hard work, fun, and learning experiences. I'm looking forward to next season."

Coaching the girls' JV team, Chris Haggerty described her team as "a brand new team. Considering where we started from, we improved quite a bit."

Vickie Saldivar was named Most Valuable Player; and, Kim Brodie and Flavia Andrade were named Best All-Around. Eileen Montez was awarded Most Improved.

Junior Angel Johnson commented, "Our lack of experience shows in our record. At times we showed improvement, but we weren't too consistent."

Inatomi, Kurz Star in a winning season

Starting the 1984-1985 season, Coaches Tommy Thompson and David Hokyo were unsure of the team, considering there were only two returning lettermen, Todd Inatomi and Kevin Kurz. The coaches said "We can be sure of Todd and Kevin, but our success depends on the rest of the cast."

If the team were compared to a movie, the following things would have happened: Inatomi and Kurz would get Oscars for Best Actor; Paul Chavez, Butch LeNoue, Armando Leyva, and Chris Wolf would get Best Supporting Actors; and Hokyo and Thompson would get awards for Best Director. In other words, Schurr's boys' varsity basketball team was a low budget, smash hit — low budget in terms of little experience, and smash hit in terms of a second place finish in league and a CIF victory.

"If we wrote it (the season) out as a play, we couldn't have done better," said Coach Hokyo.

Coach Thompson said, "I've never been more proud of a team than I am of this one."

The season ended in the second round of CIF after losing 60-50 to number-one ranked Pomona in overtime.

"We had the talent; and we came so close," Leyva. said.

The Spartans finished with an 8-2 league record. Kurz was named as KABC-TV's Prep Athlete of the Week mid season and Most Valuable Player in the Foothill League at the end of the season. Inatomi was named First-Team All-League, LeNoue, a sophomore, made the Second-Team All-League, and Leyva was designated Honorable Mention. Both Kurz and Inatomi were honored at the Winter Sports Awards Banquet as the team's co-MVP's; Leyva was given the Coaches' Award.

Coach Thompson concluded, "There are no losers in this group."

▲ All-leaguer Todd Inatomi manages to get fouled by his Bosco opponent while scoring as well, allowing him to attempt a three-point play. Schurr beat Bosco early in the season after coming off a tournament loss to South Pasadena.

Varsity Basketball

SHORT Changed Again

Give them each eight inches, and it's almost scary to think what they could have done. Undoubtably, height, or rather the lack of height, was the most damaging, discouraging and, unfortunately, immutable disadvantage the girls' varsity basketball team was plagued with . . . once again.

Confronted with the likes of San Gabriel's 6'3'' Cathy Watley, named the Most Valuable Player in league, the Spartans had to fight for every point and every rebound, using their speed and talent.

''If we didn't have the balance of offense and defense that we did, we never would have done what we did,'' said Coach Steve Terry.

The team finished in second place with a 6-4 league record, and it had a 2-5 record overall. In pre-season, the team won the Royal Oaks and Arroyo tournaments. In post-season play, Schurr lost to Woodbridge in the second round of CIF, 83-63. An example of Schurr's height disadvantage is this game, where four of the five Woodbridge starters were taller than all five of Schurr's players. Schurr's tallest players were 5'5'' Dayna Yamabe and 5'4'' Andrea Phillips, who had to contend with girls as tall as 6'2'', 5'11'',

"Overall, I think we did as much as we could with what we had. Talentwise, we had a lot going for us; physically, we were really at a loss. Had we been a little taller, we probably could have done a lot better," said Yamashita.

Boys' JV Basketball

"Outstanding"

It takes a lot of determination, effort, and practice to become a winning team; but, that is not how the boys JV basketball team did it. The Spartans earned their 16-6 overall record with teamwork. They had the ability to fast-break and run plays with pinpoint accuracy. Everyone played together, and the team finished league play with a 6-4 record.

One of the team's top scorers and rebounders, Alan Nomorosa commented, "It was a pretty good season. We played together as a team."

Head Coach Bruce Vlink added a final note on the season, "Outstanding!" We finished 16-6. What more can I say?"

Some of the outstanding players on the team were Nomorosa, who contributed points and rebounds, and Mike Varos, who passed off dozens of assists a game. Chad Atwater and David Fry were the team's key rebounders.

Short Spartans Settle for Second

With three juniors, six sophomores, and two freshmen, the girls' JV basketball team was well-equipped with talent, a quick aggressive defense, and the desire to win. Coached by Sallie Fujii, the JV team captured second place in league and compiled a record of 14-3 overall.

They excelled in pre-season play and were virtually unbeatable. Easily defeating each opponent they faced, the JVs compiled an unblemished 7-0 pre-season record.

The JVs quickly realized that league play was much more competitive, as they were defeated by Burroughs in their first league game. The Spartans easily recovered and dominated their next four opponents. The second round proved to be disappointing as they were once again defeated by Burroughs. They also suffered a loss to Alhambra, ending their season with a 7-3 record in league, and placing second.

The JV team's starting lineup consisted of guards Ann Jinkawa and Jodi Yamabe, the team's sharpshooters, and forwards Lily Oyama and Kim Brodie, and center Cindy Terakawa. Oyama, Brodie, and Terakawa dominated the boards with their offensive and defensive rebounds. The bench proved to be a valuable asset to the team with versatile players such as Tracey Kovacs and April Vigil.

Summing up the season, Yamabe commented, "We had a good season. There were a lot of ups and downs, but I'm glad there were mostly ups."

"They are a great bunch of girls, and I really enjoyed working with them," concluded Coach Fujii.

Underclass Basketball

Girls Thrive . . . Boys Dive

The girls' frosh-soph basketball team did not convey the "punky, little" image usually given to underclassmen. Instead, they proved to be tough competitors who had the desire to win and did. Under the leadership of Head Coach Lisa Moisa, the team dominated its opponents and captured the Foothill League title. The girls were undefeated in pre-season and 9-1 in league.

The starting five were consistent, according to Moisa. What they lacked in height, the players made up with quickness and aggressive defense.

Hard work and determination were only part of the frosh-soph team's success. Teranishi said, "Everyone seemed to work well together. We knew how each other played. I guess it was just one of those things that come naturally, and we were lucky to have it."

Ability, potential, and talent were all major ingredients in the sophomore basketball team, but the team lacked experience — experience that could have enhanced the "flavor" of the team's 8-14 overall record.

"The team was a young and inexperienced one, but these kids look like promising athletes. They all have the ability. We were just plagued by injuries and inconsistencies this year," Head Coach Julian Olague commented.

The freshman cagers ended their season with a bang — a big bang. Their final game against San Marino ended in an overwhelming Spartan victory of 65-44, making the team's overall record 11-9.

Head Coach Rick Ronquillo stated, "The last game was the best game the team ever played. I think these kids have a real exciting future."

Varsity Wrestling

All time high

Eleven sent to CIF

The varsity wrestling team, boasting a 25-4 individual record, had, in the mind of Coach Mike Garcia, "a very successful season."

Placing second in league, the team lost only to Alhambra, by a mere seven points. Because of this, Alhambra took first in league for the third time in a row.

In the league finals, however, Schurr was the strongest, placing seven wrestlers. Those who placed first included Mike Flores, Asher Matsuda, and Ed Salcido. Placing second were Dean Manibog, Robert Rodriguez, Richard Santisteban, and Alejandro Tirado. There were also three third place finishers and four fourth place finalists.

In CIF, seven wrestlers and four alternates qualified, which was the most Schurr had ever sent to CIF. There, Flores and Salcido placed fourth and sixth, respectively.

"This year's team was full of talent and surprises," Manibog said.

Alfred O'Neill commented, "We had strong leadership from our captain, Ed Salcido, and we had a team that had the will to win."

On the other hand, Flores was not as enthusiastic, "We were tough, but not enough of us wanted to win." Salcido, optimistic about the team's future, said, "We should do better next year."

Taking It to the Floor

To say it was a good year for frosh-soph and JV wrestling at Schurr is an understatement. Racking up five straight wins in league matches, the team beat: La Canada, 60-12; Alhambra, 43-8; San Marino, 56-10; South Pasadena, 54-18; and Temple City, 42-14.

"This year's team surpassed our expectations," said a very satisfied Coach Lou Lawrence. "They excelled not only on the wrestling mat, but more importantly, in the classroom. We had nine kids with a 3.0 grade-point average or better."

According to their records, Wayne Evans, Thomas Pieratt, Alejandro Tirado, and Joe Velasco were the most impressive wrestlers.

"Our team did the unexpected. We were gifted," said Joe Velasco.

Mike Barajas said, "I think we did exceptionally well. We all looked up to the older wrestlers, Lupe Ortiz and our captain, Henry Martinez."

Martinez commented, "Without the rest of the team working together, we never could have done this well."

Summing up the season in three words, Pieratt said, "We were awesome!"

Although they had no title to win, the Frosh-Soph wrestlers left their mark on the mat.

Finishing 1st, 2nd or 3rd in many of their individual tournaments, the younger, less experienced wrestlers seemed to have their act together, giving hope for the future of the wrestling team.

Varsity Baseball

The Top of the Lineup

Replacing Mr. Don Hill as the varsity baseball coach, Coach Paul "Buzz" Baviello showed the team that he meant business when he stepped onto the field.

He started by setting up certain procedures and by giving each member of the team a notebook containing plays, strategies, signs, and rules. It was obvious that this year's team was looking forward to CIF.

The team looked to Bobby Pasos, Tim Phillips, and Hubert Turner to lead the team. With 15 seniors, the team had experience. With this experience, Baviello tried to "relax the kids and make them believe in themselves."

Baviello concluded, "I was very proud the way the team never gave up and kept coming back. The kids never quit; they are real winners."

Varsity Softball

And the Spirit Survives

Having lost many of last year's players because of grades, the girls varsity softball team started out the season by recruiting new team members. Response was good — 60 girls showed up for tryouts and an almost entirely new team was formed. Early in the season Coach Chris Haggerty said, "I honestly believe if they can mentally get it together we can place in the top three." Toward this goal, they spent two hours of strenuous workout daily, running, exercising, and planning strategies for upcoming games.

Their main problem was to become a team. As Julie Tafoya said, "If we mentally get psyched up in the beginning, our chances of winning are good." Melinda White added, "If we are going to start winning we are going to have to work harder, and a lot more enthusiasm towards winning must show."

Haggerty said that the team's strongest point was its hitting, and noted, "The players still need to work together as a team." The team looked to veteran player White for consistent pitching, and depended on Pam To for her fielding ability, which earned her an athletic scholarship. "If we work hard, we will do well; so far, it looks optimistic for the season, as seen by our previous victories," concluded Haggerty.

Varsity/JV Baseball

More Than Just a Game

Even though it is not well known, the girls on the junior varsity softball team take their game seriously, practicing and doing exercises two hours every day.

As on the varsity team, many of the members were new this year. Two key players, Angie Nieto and Lorena Padilla were lost to the varsity team early in the season and JV was faced with recruiting new members mid-season.

Despite these initial problems, team members seemed optimistic. Left-fielder Idalia Espino commented, "I feel our team can be very good if they put their mind to it and play together as a team. Our team is there; all we have to do is work at it."

In her second year of coaching, Sandy Santiago said that her players are "great, but, they need more confidence." She concluded, "The team has real potential if the girls work at it."

▼ Trying to steal second base, Pam To keeps her eye on every move the Hart pitcher makes.

▲ In a huddle, Coach Chris Haggerty goes over last minute details with the varsity team before the start of the game.
◀ Exhibiting one of her many outfield skills, Vicki Teranishi throws the ball to home plate.
◀◀ During practice, Maria Elizarraras brushes up on her catching skills.

Getting Defensive

"I think that the JV team is good enough to win the league with a little more consistency," said Coach Bill Drulias.

With key defensive players such as left-fielder Chad Atwater, first baseman Robert Orozco, and pitcher Joe Cypert, the team had a successful year. Orozco commented, "On defense we made all the routine plays; but, on offense we needed more consistent hitting. But like I said, we're damned good on defense".

Like any other team, it also had a weakness. The team's over-all batting-average was not quite up to it's expectations, but strong defensive skills made up for it.

Coach Drulias had predicted that by the end of the year when the team's skills were polished, it would "finish in the top three in league, if not number one."

Rick Frias added, "We kind of lacked enthusiasm, but we had team unity. We really played well together."

▼ Concentrating on the pitcher, first baseman Robert Orozco prepares to pick off a Techman from Bosco.

▶ Taking a break from the action, Sal Villaseñor and Freddie Alvarez watch the competition have it out.

Boys' Varsity Track

Maintaining Tradition

Even before the start of yet another track season, Head Coach Bruce Vlink was praising the quality of the boys' varsity team. "All in all, we should have a fine year. We should have a lot of success — both as a team and individually. With a few breaks and a lot of hard work, we'll have an outstanding year," he commented.

Vlink mentioned the names of competitors that the team would rely heavily on once the season started. In the sprinting events, he credited Randy Chew, Joe Manzanares and Roger Tafoya, who were all defending league champs.

"Gabriel Macias (distance) is coming off an excellent cross country season and David Fry (triple jump) has been outstanding," Vlink continued.

The toughest opponents, based on the past year's results, were Burbank and Hart.

Tafoya was optimistic about the season. "We have more league champs coming back this year — supposedly, we'll take league," he predicted.

Co-captain Brayan Galletano commented, "We have depth in all events and everyone's enthusiastic." He also credited much of the team's success with coach Mando Luevano. "Mando is an excellent sprint coach and he doesn't get enough recognition," stated Galletano.

Rey Urbano, the other co-captain, expressed his feelings about the season: "All areas are taken care of — we should do well at all the invitationals."

▶ Even though the winner has crossed the finish line, Jerry Candelaria and Randy Chew battle it out for second place.

▶ Full steam ahead, senior Ray Urbano finds the hurdle a small obstacle.

▼ Setting the pace, teammates Steve Macias and Abel Orozco leave the other runners in the dust.

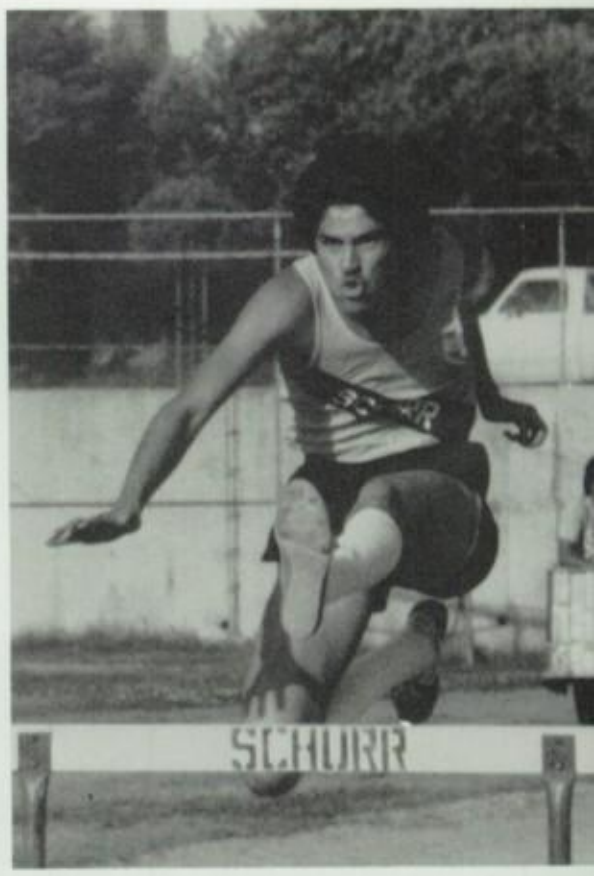
▼▼ Junior Raul Galvan practices his pole vaulting technique for the upcoming meet.



▼ With precision that comes only from practice, Juan Martinez hands the baton to teammate Roger Tafoya without breaking his stride.

Girls' Varsity Track

Spirit Overcomes Inexperience

Commenting on this year's girls' varsity track team, Coach Bruce Vlink observed, "They are real young and don't have a lot of experience. We don't have many seniors and we have a lot of freshmen."

Nevertheless, before the season started, Vlink was "real pleased," saying that "they are following instructions and respond really well."

Unity in any team is always a major factor. Senior Dalila Madrigal commented, "As a team, we have a good chance — so far, everybody's together." Teammate Stacie Jimenez agreed, "We are doing pretty good — we are all getting along and there hasn't been a lot of complaining."

Leading the team throughout the year were co-captains Julie Caracol and Janet Villa. Their toughest opponent, Vlink predicted, was the team from Burroughs.

In meets with Burroughs and other tough opponents, Vlink mentioned a few competitors whom the young team would rely on. They included Caracol and Jennifer Zubiate (distance) and Lorena Granados, whom he expected to "follow in the long tradition of discus champions."

Granados had "high hopes" for the year, commenting "everything's shaping up really well." Granados, a senior, also noted that over the years, the team had "grown larger in numbers and more united in spirit."

▶ Helen Flores executes a perfect pass to her relay partner Ruth Jimenez.
▶▶ Against the Alhambra Moors, Jennifer Zubiate sets the pace, building an early lead.

◀ With a little extra effort, Stacie Jimenez propels herself over the high bar.

Boys' Underclass Track

Hungry for Championship

According to Coach Bruce Vlink, the boys' underclass track team showed a tremendous improvement in its skills. Practicing approximately two hours every day to attain perfection, the team put itself through a strenuous workout with grueling runs and endless drills. Its goal was to capture four league championships and four trophies.

Nick Lugo commented, "We were all playing together this year and were hungry for a league championship."

Charlie Edinger said, "This team is the greatest; we were happy about everything we did, and I was proud to be on such a big team." Jose Lemus added, "Our hard work will pay off at the end." Coach Bruce Vlink, proud of the team, said, "The athletes are doing an outstanding job."

◀◀ Instantly reaching to the starter's gun, Lamont Barnes gets a jump on his opponent in the sprinting event.

◀ Frank Perez takes time to stretch out before a race. Loosening up before a race can prevent injuries.

▼ Vaulter Mario Rodriguez gets a good push off his pole to easily clear the bar.

Girls' Underclass Track

Keeping Their Promises

Consisting basically of beginners, the underclass track and field team practiced rigorously every day, trying to better itself with grueling runs and strenuous drills. All of the members' hard work paid off as the team began the year with a victory over Montebello High School.

Commenting on the team's performance, freshman Francis Tong said, "I think that we did pretty good. We placed mostly first and second at most of the meets."

Head Coach Steve Terry added, "There were a lot of promising performances, especially by Cheryl Hall, Irene Kim, and freshman long-distance runner Lisa Roybal. I think that, overall, we did very well."

▲ Showing off her winning form, Irene Kim clears a hurdle on her way to another victory.
◀ After putting a practice shot, Gina Allanbough watches it fly through the cold afternoon air.
▶ At the sound of the starter's gun, Carmina Ileto sprints out of the blocks.

◀ Receiving last minute tips from Mr. Robert Allen, Angie Saldivar checks the stats on her previous throws.
▼ Leaving their Rowlands opponent behind, Raquel Ileto, Susan Padilla, Jennie Sanchez and Michelle Bernal compete only against themselves for the top three finishing spots.

Boys' Tennis

Net Gains

After last year's sixth place finish in league, this year's varsity tennis team knew it could only do better. But then the back and forth swing of tennis took its toll and the team suffered a loss to Loyola.

However, the team bounced back with a devastating 28-0 win over Bell Gardens, proving that effort can overcome inexperience.

Coach Glenn Sewell attributed the team's wins to "placing the right players together at the doubles positions." Burbank, Burroughs and Hart proved to be the toughest opponents.

Leading the varsity netters through the season were returning varsity players Richard Eng and Kenneth Loh. Charles Sayasith, Bryan Moor, and Peter Lew filled in the remaining singles slots. The doubles roster consisted of John Byeon and Woo Kim, and Tim Moreno and David Nguyen.

"No one really expected too much from the junior varsity team because we were so young; we went out there and tried to do our best," said singles player Gerald Yee.

Under first-year mentor William Kim, the JV team had, according to Kim, the skill to win but lacked the experience needed.

This year the freshman team found a coach in Jay Thomson. Since not many other high schools have freshman teams, it was hard to schedule many matches.

After a loss to Keppel, the freshmen came back with a 28-0 win over El Rancho and some respect. As Thomson put it, "They are a very fine group of athletes to work with. They are no longer the Rodney Dangerfields of tennis . . . they have respect."

▶ John Byeon returns a shot to his opponent during the game against Alhambra.

Golf/Swimming

Working Their Way Up

For both the swim and golf teams, 1985 was a rebuilding year. Even though they were not the most visible teams on campus, one could see that the teams, comprised mainly of freshmen, sophomores and juniors, were young and inexperienced.

A swim team? Yes, for the second year, Schurr has had a swim team but no pool. Although the team does not have its own coach, the swimmers are advised by John McLain, coach for Mark Keppel.

The team's main objective is to qualify for CIF, according to team captain Jeff Kunishima. Kunishima made second team All-League in freestyle last year, and he also made CIF, but was unable to compete due to illness.

"Although the team is small and we just started out, I hope a greater interest in the program will arise in the future," concluded Kunishima.

In his ninth year as the golf coach, Mr. Rick Niccoli said, "If the kids are willing to work hard this summer, they could be the best team I've ever had. The potential is there."

Although the only two returning varsity golfers are juniors, Niccoli feels optimistic about the future.

"Golf is an individual sport. A lot of my players were playing under pressure for the first time this year. My team did a good job this year," concluded Niccoli.

CLASS

Senior Class. In the broadest sense, it is collectively a group of students who have completed four years of high school. Specifically, it is the pride and spirit of the 549 students that make up the Class of 1985.

Over the past four years, the Class of '85 has proven that it can compete. In academics and athletics, these students have the skills necessary to get ahead. Winning the Homecoming building decoration contest two consecutive years, they have the ability to work together to be the best. At the 1981 and at the 1983 Basketball Homecoming, the Class of '85 took the title of King and Queen, proving their popularity among the rest of the student body. In their senior year, they have shown their pride and spirit by winning the Homecoming Spirit Yell.

The Class of '85 has established the fact that they have class. It is this class that sets them apart from all others.

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the winter of incredulity, . . . it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of dispair; we had everything before us, we had nothing before us."

Charles Dickens
Tale of Two Cities

Dickens' opening lines in the Tale of Two Cities could have been used to describe senior year as easily as they described pre-Revolutionary France in the 1790's.

True, senior year is ''the best year in high school''; but, it has its ups and downs. The good times include weekends with friends, footbal games, dances, Senior Ditch Day, the Prom, Grad Night, and graduating. Likewise, the bad times consist of hard classes, working, insecurity, the never-ending second semester, and graduation. Nevertheless, the good times outweigh the bad times.

"It is the age of wisdom, . . . " Of course, after three years of high school, we are more knowledgeable, and we are more worldly. Both Contemporary Living teachers, Mrs. Cho and Mrs. Lindrum agree. Mrs. Cho said, "Seniors are, in general, mature." Mrs. Lindrum commented, "Seniors are different in that they have opinions." But on the other hand, seniors are completely neither adults nor children. As senior Margaret Matush said, ''This is our last chance to act like kids before we're adults.''

This is also a time of insecurity. At times we believe strongly in ourselves, yet at other times, we find ourselves doubting this belief. Senior year can be described as a year-long battle between belief and incredulity. There are many things which cause us to believe this during the last high school year. Some examples are (not) making varsity, (not) winning a scholarship, and (not) becoming Homecoming Queen or King.

During senior year, the "winter of despair" is the arduous time to apply to colleges, and it is a time to start deciding about possible job preferences. Spring is the season when applications from jobs and colleges can be evaluated, making it a "spring of hope."

With all the factors, senior year is indeed unique. After Commencement, as it is so appropriately named, we have the opportunity to entirely different life-styles. We can meet new people, try new things, and see new places. Our choices are not limited. We can have everything before us, or we can have nothing before us; the choice is ours.

▲ Rivaling New York's mafia, the Senior class cabinet members and officers show their power and sophistication. The clan is composed of: Jean Oyakawa; Stewart Yabutani; Michelle Wong; Robert Ramirez, Vice President; Dahni Tsuboi, President; Steve Chu; Diana Chow, Secretary; Steve Moriyasu; and Vera Sunada.

For Seniors, Something To Remember . . .

For the Freshmen, Homecoming was a new and exciting experience; for the sophomores and juniors, it was a chance to show they were the best class in the school. For the seniors, however, Homecoming was all that and more. There is a special nostalgia for seniors because they realized that it was their final high school Homecoming.

"All-around spirit shared by all the seniors made it really special."

Rochelle Matsubara

"No comment about the game, but everything else was great."

Eddie Salcido

Excuses, Excuses!

Some seniors have favorite teachers, others have favorite music groups, and still others have favorite times of the day. All, however, seem to have a favorite excuse. Here are just some of the excuses seniors have collected over their four years of high school.

"The best excuse I ever gave was when a teacher caught me ditching. I told her that I had to take a friend to get a pregnancy test."

Victoria Calvarezo

"When I was late, I told the teacher that I slipped in the mud and had to go home and change. There wasn't even a sign of water outside."

Roy Rendon

"The best excuse I ever gave for falling asleep in class was to my math teacher. I told him I stayed up all night doing my history because I did my math during history."

Edward Morales

"I told my teacher that my little brother drooled on my homework and smeared the ink. The teacher fell for it. I don't have a little brother."

Glenn Suravech

"I have to talk to my counselor to see if I'm gonna make it to graduation."

Rodney Eastman

"I have to go to the restroom . . . for the rest of the period."

Tang Stu Lang

"I had to fluff my pom-poms this morning for the pep rally."

Yolo Gerritsen

"The car broke down this morning and that's why I showed up so late for sixth period."

Rosalia Nava

"When I was late to my first period, I told my teacher that I went to the restroom and messed up and wet my pants. She bought the excuse. Tardy to class excused."

The Last First Day

The Beginning of the End

Most seniors who looked back at their last first day of high school agreed that although everyone wanted to make 1984-85 a memorable year altogether, the first day of school was nothing special.

Leslie Unger recalls, "I didn't think of it as much, just another first day of school."

The majority of seniors agreed with Unger's statement, but some seniors, such as Glenn Suravech, made a point of making their last first day a memorable one.

"I remember staying after school really late, and going out with all my friends. It was the end of summer, and none of the teachers had given out homework, so we all made a point of having a great time on our 'senior' first day of school," Suravech reminisced.

Esther Timoschuk remembered, "Just thinking about my senior year altogether, and being a little sad because it was my last first day of school."

So even though some seniors weren't affected by their last first day of school, others will remember it as something special.

Dear Diary,

Today was the worst day of my life! Absolutely everything went wrong. When I tried to tell everyone how horrible my day was, I found out that they were having a bad day too.

The first person I talked to was Raymond Wong. He said his worst day was yesterday, so I didn't want to bother him with my problems.

I kept on looking for someone to listen to all the terrible times I was going through today. When I saw Jayson Kim, I thought he would be the perfect person to talk to. But, he retorted, "Everyday is the worst day for me!"

After that I decided to look for someone else to talk to. Luckily I came across Michael Sakamoto. What Michael said wasn't much consolation, however. He said, "I've had many. I think they started on Tuesday, September 14, 1984 and probably won't end until Thursday, June 20, 1985."

I still needed some more solace and understanding. When I saw Debbie Agena, I thought she would be the perfect person to talk to. Little did I know that she was having a bad day too. She had just gotten married in Contemporary Living. With the burden of marriage, I couldn't possibly trouble her with my problems.

I spent the rest of the day searching for that one burdenless soul who would listen to my problems and comfort me. I ended up listening to everyone else's problems instead. Erickson Yee told me all about his horrible experience taking the SAT. Sari Mashita related her dreaded worst day, "Whenever tests come back."

You know, after listening to everyone else's problems, I wasn't really doing so bad. I guess my worst day wasn't so terrible after all.

Dynamic Duos; Twins a

Although twins and triplets may share the same looks and traits, most of the senior twins at Schurr pride themselves with being "very different" from one another.

Gerard Mendez claims that he and his fraternal twin Gerald are "totally different and like different things." Gerald seems to agree, quipping, "We have different views towards life — Gerard obviously acts more mature, while I am still in my youth."

As time progressed, Roger Tafoya discovered that he and fraternal twin Richard became more and more different. "When we were smaller, everything that we got was bought in sets," he observes.

Triplets Hi, Vi, and Man Tang, however, try to be the same. "Everything we do, we do together and we have a lot of fun, even though we do disagree sometimes," Vi adds with a smile.

Unfortunately, this threesome was not able to stay together throughout high school, as Man moved to Arizona to take care of their ill grandmother.

Nevertheless, all of the siblings have managed to stay close to each other. "We are more than just good friends — we stand behind each other. Even if we both go our separate ways, if one needs help, the other is there," explains Gerald.

Roger maintains that though he and Richard are close, he is "always so busy that we hardly ever see each other. But when he wants to just talk, we discuss what's wrong."

Even Richard acquiesed, "We don't have time to be really close because he is so busy, but we were before." He continues, "When Roger went to England with the band one summer and I stayed home, I didn't know how much I missed him until then."

Fernando Leyva sees many advantages to having an identical twin brother. "You get to grow up having fun with someone your own age and you get to meet more people through being twins."

His brother Armando also describes one particular benefit: "We meet a lot more females because there are two of us, but if they hate him, they will end up hating me too!"

Along with the fun times of being a triplet, come some often difficult circumstances. "We never seem to get sick at the same time. One week, one of us will be sick. It's hard for our mother sometimes," confesses Hi.

Sharing the same birthdays can also mean sharing some special moments together. Fernando remembers when he and Armando first played baseball together on a team. "In 1977, we (Saybrook All-Stars) won the championship and it was special because we won it together."

"We are the first set of twins ever to wrestle on the varsity level at Schurr," Gerald states. However, that fact is not always to their advantage as Gerard quickly adds, "People are always getting us mixed up in wrestling."

In any case, Roger seems to hold the best explanation for being a twin: "It seems strange, but both of us were born on the same day."

SAT Anxiety Attacks

Thrilled that another Friday has finally arrived, a typical senior hurries home to relax and try to get a headstart on the upcoming weekend. He comes home, throws his books on the couch and begins his raid on the refrigerator.

"Aaah, there is nothing like a junk food snack to help you forget about your troubles," he thinks to himself as he gobbles down his culinary masterpiece.

As he is finishing his snack, however, a recollection hits him like a bomb. "OH NO!!!!! The SAT is tomorrow!"

Yes, that dreaded day has almost arrived. All seniors who plan to further their high school educations must take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

"Three straight hours of test-taking! I can barely handle one hour!" the horrified senior says to himself. "Sure, Mr. Richard Holz, the college counselor, says, 'The SAT is just another tool that colleges use in their admissions processes,' but this test will determine my entire future!"

Mr. Clark Barrett explains that "the SAT measures twelve years of education." Mr. Holz encourages, "The SAT is an instrument measures college potential. There is a very high relationship between good SAT scores and college success, however, GPA and SAT scores are not the whole students."

Despite all the reassuring words, the senior still goes to bed feeling nervous. He has trouble sleeping. The next morning he wakes up in a cold sweat.

"Oh, thank goodness that was only a dream," he mutters as he reaches to turn off the annoying ring of his alarm clock.

"Wait a minute! This isn't a dream; I have to go take the SAT today!" he suddenly realizes. He stumbles out of bed and gets dressed.

As he arrives in his test-taking room, he finds a comfortable seat where he can easily see the clock. "8:30. The test should be starting in a few moments. I wonder what is taking so long!" he thinks to himself.

After the last few stragglers enter the room, the proctor begins reading the directions. "Darn. Why is he taking so much time to read the directions? Reading the directions is going to take longer than taking the entire test. Gee, now I have to go to the bathroom. I wonder if I can hold out for three more hours."

Two hours later, he begins to get tired and hungry, and irritated at the testtaker sitting next to him. "That guy keeps tapping his eraser against the table and reading out loud to himself. Even I don't do that anymore! Talk about rude!"

After he finishes taking the dreaded test, he drives over to the nearest fast food place and treats himself to lunch. "Gee, that wasn't so bad afterall. But I wonder if the SAT was worth all the anxieties and the $11 I had to pay to take it," he ponders as he enjoys his lunch.

Teachers Can Be Silly Too . . .

Every class seems to have a class clown. He is that one student who can send a class into laughing hysteria. Sometimes, however, this clown's behavior is outclassed by another person in the classroom. This person is none other than the teacher. The class clown often finds himself competing with the strange and humorous antics of his teacher.

These are just a few of the strangest and funniest things teachers have done over the past four years.

"Miss Belt was lecturing to us and suddenly she said, 'Where are my glasses?' Then she started to search everywhere for them. Little did she know that she was holding them in her hands the whole time."

Raymond Wong

"One time after school, I was trying to meet a deadline and Mrs. Wellenstein was getting really jumpy, so she started tap dancing and singing her favorite song from a musical."

Karen Kawasaki

"One day the class was really loud. Mr. Goebel yelled 'You're giving me a headache!' and took out a prescription bottle, opened it, dumped a lot in his hand and ate them. We were all so scared because we thought they were real pills. They turned out to be M&M's."

Dora Lau

"The funniest day in Chemistry was when Miss Kaestner spilt acid on her leg and had polkadotted holes in her stockings all day!"

Diana Chow

"Mr. Goebel picked up Trina Chow's eraser that looked like a tiny candy bar and tried to eat it."

Sari Mashita

"A teacher fell flat on his face while walking up the stairs."

Welcome to the Real World!

DAY ONE

Marriage?!! How can I even begin to think about marriage? I'm only seventeen years old? I haven't even gotten over acne yet?

Kids?!! First marriage, now kids? I'm still a kid myself! I'm not even out of high school yet!

A balanced budget? How can I balance the budget of a family when I can't even figure out a way to save my own money?!

Maybe these problems won't be so bad if I tackle them one at a time. First, marriage.

WEEKS LATER

Gee, this marriage isn't so bad after all. We have finally finished paying off the debts from the wedding, we both managed to get jobs, and we have started renting a nice, modest apartment in middle suburbia.

Oh no! Kids! I had completely forgotten about kids! What are we going to do? How are we going to pay for the baby that's on the way? Aaaugh!!!!!!

MONTHS LATER

I don't know what I was so worried about. Raising Junior does make a large dent in our budget, but I enjoy his company. In spite of the constant diaper changing, drooling, and crying, he's a good kid.

AS TIME MARCHED ON

I think I have finally gotten the knack of this marriage and kid stuff. I am actually beginning to enjoy them more and more.

A divorce?!! But we were in deep like when we got married. Why? Oh, I see, this semester is over and this Contemporary Living class has ended. It wasn't just a class; it was an adventure!

Growing Up In One Decade, Living In Another . . .

What do bell-bottomed pants, "Mork and Mindy", plaid ties and the Bee Gees all have in common? The answer is simple — they were all products of the time we now know as the seventies.

The generation of the seventies was recovering from the tragedy of Vietnam and the protests of the sixties. The members of the Class of '85 came out of the baby boom occurring in the late sixties.

To help get their minds off of the previous troubled years, people turned to easy, relaxed styles of dressing, including bell bottomed pants, gauchos, wide lapels on blazers, loud plaid shirts, and free-flowing hair styles.

John Travolta and his movie "Saturday Night Fever" hit in the late seventies. The Bee Gees, then a very popular disco music group, performed the soundtrack.

Other popular musical groups of the seventies included The Village People, Earth, Wind, and Fire, Cheap Trick, Wings, Barry Manilow and Donna Summer.

Television in the seventies was influenced by family ties. Although the days of "Leave It To Beaver" were gone, shows such as "The Brady Bunch", "The Partridge Family", "Bewitched" and "Family Affair" still provided hours of entertainment.

Comedies like "Three's Company", "Mork and Mindy" and "Saturday Night Live" also achieved high ratings.

Graduation

Time has come for us to part and go our separate ways, to build our dreams, to reach our goals, and pattern out our days. I remember how I use to look forward to graduating and living reality, but now that the time has come I'm quite a bit afraid. I'm not quite sure where to start but I just wanted you to know that I'm very thankful that we had the chance to share our precious friendship. I'll always cherish all the moments that we have shared together. How could I forget you, when you have left such a big imprint in my heart.

It was really nice meeting my friends and it hurts to let them go, but I realize that we all have to expand our horizons, sometime in our life.

As I get ready to face a whole new world, I can recall the ups and downs of my high school years. I remember how I use to look forward to the day when I would be able to say farewell to high school. I used to dream about the day when I could be out there spreading my wings and seeking adventure. Nobody will know that only congratulation cheers restrained my graduation tears.

The Classes. They are the students who make up the junior, sophomore and freshmen classes. By definition, a class is a body of students who have the same year of graduation. It is also a ranking that distinguishes an individual among a sea of students.

Each class has its own character, spirit, and personality. The juniors have developed and grown since their freshmen days. They have the responsibility of taking over the senior class. Their experience in school functions like the Prom has shown their spirit, pride and willingness to succeed. The sophomores also play a key role. They are the future of the school. In time they too will be in a position to lead the student body. Their unbounded spirit and enthusiasm was a welcome addition to the overall school atmosphere. With a record number of students, the freshmen had many troubles to overcome. Besides being the newest high school students, they had to adjust to a new atmosphere and a new system. Despite all these adversities, the freshmen were an asset to the student body.

It is evident that each class serves its own purpose and has its own character. The Classes add to the school's personality and proudly represent the majority of the student body.

C.A.R.E.-ing

During the past year, Ethiopia was the victim of a sudden drought that killed its crops and prevented any form of agriculture. The drought had lasted over five years so far, and how much longer it would last was unknown. The poor victims could not do much to help themselves and they were not getting much help from their government.

Students extended a helping hand through C.A.R.E. to help feed the starving Ethiopians. This effort started in Clark Barrett's junior World Literature class. Barrett suggested that the students give their help through a local C.A.R.E. affiliate, which agreed to send donation boxes for the students to carry around the campus and collect donations. Then Lulu Wong, a junior, suggested, "Why don't we have a sponsorship for people who are willing to fast for a maximum of 24 hours?" Many students were willing, and so a starvathon got started.

Shortly after it all got going, Schurr was visited by guest speakers from C.A.R.E along with news reporters. The speaker, Richard Hoff, discussed the problems and suggested plans for helping out. He also questioned several of the students who attended the meeting. Later in the evening, the students saw themselves on the NBC local news.

Students showed a lot of classy Schurr spirit in their good intention to help out the unfortunate victims.

h Oban busily completes his assignment in his Algebra 3-4

Sophomores Soar With Spirit

Far from being freshmen, but not yet upperclassmen, the Class of '87 ably took on the formidable task of being sophomores. President Michele Miyakawa noted, "This year was slightly easier — we knew the ropes." Vice President Carolyn Peralta agreed, "This year was easier because I knew more or less what to do and I had more experience."

This year, all sophomores had to tackle the challenges of taking the Hart test. This statewide test measures basic reading, writing and math skills. Also on the agenda were required courses in Western civilizations and driver's education.

Since most sophomores turned 16 during the year, they also participated in the driver's training program. In this program, they were required to take four after school sessions of simulated driving. These sessions were held in a trailer located on the outer edge of the teachers' parking lot.

Four sessions of behind the wheel training were also required. Members of the Class of '87 were among the first to get a crack at driving the seven new Aries station wagons purchased in June of 1984. These cars cost $9,000 each and replaced the set of American Motors Concords previously used.

During summer vacation, the busy sophomores held a car wash to help raise money for the 1986 Junior-Senior Prom, an event which they will sponsor.

They also sold candy apples during football Homecoming and held a gummy bear sale. Commenting on the success of the gummy bear sale, Miyakawa stated, "We made a lot — about $400 — because it was something new."

Among the plans of the Class of '87, according to Secretary April Ortiz, were "to make Homecoming better and to have a good prom." Miyakawa wished to "have some kind of outing especially for the sophomore class." She also wanted to "try to get the majority of sophomores involved in school spirit."

Commenting on her class as a whole, cabinet member Gail Quan observed, "All classes are spirited, but ours really stands out."

The First Step Is Always the Hardest

The questions asked of freshmen were: "What does it feel like being a freshman?" and "What do you want to accomplish in your freshman year?" If you want to find out the answers we've got — READ it!

Gina Rauda: It's different because I have to challenge myself and meet my goals.

Gloria Reyes: High school is much harder than intermediate. I'd like to experience new and different things as a freshman.

Laura Gonzales: I don't feel different from everyone else because I'm treated in the same way.

Judy Martinez: There's twice as much work, and everyone is more mature and friendly.

Anna Fujinami: There's no difference except for the fact that they treat you more mature, that the grading process is different, and that the teachers are more strict.

Kelly Shin: IT'S BORING!

Jennifer Roselund: Everyone thinks they're better and more sophisticated.

Catherine Langkammerer: They treat you better and more mature.

David Lopez: It's all right, but the teachers are boring!

Barbra Llamas: It's different than the eighth grade because they make you feel as if you're a dumb freshman, but you feel like a superior freshman instead.

Ruth Zermeno: I want to pass my classes and have fun!

Michie Higuchi: Expand my social capabilities.

Eric Johannsen: I'm just among a bunch of big, older, taller dudes.

Jody Shimizu: I feel like a regular student.

Wesly Paik: I think that it's more fun being a freshmen because you don't get blamed if you do a lot of stupid stuff.

Jimmy Kim: A sex education.

Craig DeMerit and Victor Fann busily discuss homework.

ween classes, students try to hurry to beat the crowd near the "C" building stairs. This year, Schurr's enrollment was up by about 300 students.

Schurr Traffic Report, K-SUR

7:45 a.m. "Hi ho everybody in radioland. It's time for the K-SUR radio traffic report with Sammy Spartan.

"Well, it's a beautiful morning at Schurr High School, and boy, do we have a lot of traffic. Let's get to it.

"On the west-bound 'A' building stairs, there is a three-student collision being cleared up at the moment. If you have classes there, you should avoid those stairs! On the east-bound 'B' building stairs, there is a five-kid pile-up. Try an alternate route to your class.

"Now, on the P.E. staircase, it looks pretty bad with traffic, pee-chee to binder at a dead standstill. That's it from here. See you at 11:00 a.m. Till then, this is K-SUR eye-in-the-sky.

1:00 a.m. "Well, as first lunch gets rolling here, both lines are brimming with hungry people, bumping into each other all over the place. And there's a two-student pile-up in front of 'C' building's corridor. SCHUR-TRANS has called a sig-alert due to a spill of books on the front steps. It could be some time before that's cleared so if you're en route to the library or up to the upper floors of "C' you ought to try an alternate route this morning. This is K-SUR eye-in-the-sky signing off until lunch.

11:45 a.m. "Second lunch is a mess from up here in the sky. The 'speed-line' had a seventeen-kid crack-up with a lot of spilled milk, ketchup, refried beans, and creamed corn all over the route. From the air, it looks like a lot of people are down there arguing. Crossing guards and police are on the way with this one, and it looks like slow going; kids backed up all the way around the corner. Heading into the 'Quad' could bring you a delay due to a three-man scuffle. No report on the problem, but try to avoid the area. Otherwise, there is clear sailing! Check in later; this is K-SUR eye-in-the-sky.

3:00 p.m. "Good afternoon, folks. Well, there's the usual back-up on the 'C' to 'B' stair with no real complications, so you who use that regularly, turn up your 'Walkman' and enjoy a leisurely pace. The basketball game is causing a lot of neck-craning around the gym, so be prepared to stop as you exit the campus. If you're headed down Wilcox around the sewer construction, use caution as the foot traffic mixes with the motor vehicles. Have a good day. This is K-SUR eye-in-the-sky signing off."

DANNY:

I'm really glad i got to meet ya this year cuz your a really special friend to me. It would be kinda dumb to write "I hope I see ya this summer" cuz i know for a fact that i will see ya. I dont wanna write anything to personal. Just wanna say glad were friends

love ya

Class Substance. Schurr is one of the classiest schools around, but what gives this school that special quality? It is the teachers, administrators and the like who make up the excellent faculty. It is also the various departments offering additional field trips and hands on experiments that enhance a student's education. Both the faculty and the academic departments are the class substance of Schurr. Many favorable remarks about Schurr are the result of the diligence and dedication of the faculty members. Because of this, the students benefit and the entire school has a certain atmosphere that exhibits confidence and class. This could not be possible without the faculty and their departments, the substance of Schurr's class.

▲ Montebello Board of Education: Eleanor Chow, Arthur M. Chavez (Clerk), Darrell H. Heacock (President), Dr. Herbert M. Sterns (Vice-President), Willard G. Yamaguchi.

When you talk to a person with "class," you are usually referring to someone of real quality. They have a style about them that sets them apart from the rest. To have class is something that everyone desires, but few have.

Schurr High School is a school with class. The quality of education here has been recognized throughout the state and we have been in serious consideration as an Exemplary School. This year we have six National Merit Finalists who demonstrate the quality of the education they received at Schurr High School.

Another quality that sets Spartans apart from the rest is their commitment and involvement. To raise money for the hungry, to tutor those not so gifted, and to work for the sick and disabled were accomplishments of our students this year. What they did was class in action.

A final part of class is doing your best in everything you are involved in. Spartans have been noted for outstanding efforts in athletics, music, band, speech, clubs, and vocational organizations. We may not always win the championship, but everyone knows they have been in a contest when they compete with us.

This annual is another indicator of "class" in action. The annual staff has worked hard to show you 1984-1985 in a way you'll remember forever. I know that Spartan class will show from these pages.

Celebrity Status

Counselor Peter Fong finds time in his busy life to do some part time acting. Fong became interested in acting when he was in junior high school. After taking part in his first play, A Christmas Carol, he decided to pursue an acting career.

Once in high school, he took every acting and speech class available. He continued this curriculum through his years attending attending UCLA. While at UCLA, Fong decided to major in speech because he "enjoyed the thrill of competition" rather than the glamour of the stage.

Later Fong was asked to do the voice of Bruce Lee in "Revenge of the Dragons." He also answered an ad to join the Improv Comedy Group. After that, he joined a local Asian comedy group.

Fong's most recent stage appearance was during Christmas of 1984 when he got a part in "Amal's Christmas" with the Cal State University Improv.

▶ When not acting, Mr. Peter Fong counsels students and relaxes.

Passes with a Style of Their Own

Deviating from the traditional plain, wooden slab, some faculty members have established trademarks for themselves by resorting to strange and unique hall passes.

Mrs. Cheryl Portillo's students must carry a small, yellow toilet bowl whenever they want to use the restroom. Portillo explains, "Originally, it was my daughter's travel potty, which was never used. I had to think of some way to reduce the number of restroom trips."

She points out, "It works because it publicizes where the student is going and what he is going to do."

Also wishing to curtail the frequency of restroom breaks is girls' basketball coach, Steve Terry. Since 1979, he has used a basketball as a hall pass. "I basically wanted something that would stand out and be relatively embarrassing and cumbersome to carry," he explains.

Mr. Mando Marentes, who rebuilds old Volkswagon Bugs as a hobby, put one of the leftover steering wheels to good use. "Since I teach Drivers' Education, I figure it (the steering wheel) can give the students some good training since they have to hold it in the 10 and 2 o'clock position," states Marentes.

Another conspicuous hall pass is Mr. Clark Barrett's giant cardboard hamburger. He illuminates, "I use it because it's distinctive and large — someone is not going to fold it up and put it in his pocket. I also use it to get a good laugh."

Mrs. Lorrie Wellenstein also uses a gift from a former student as a hall pass. Her students carry a small sign from the San Diego Zoo which says, "Please do not annoy, torment, pester, molest, worry, badger, harry, harass, heckle, persecute, irk, bullyrag, vex, disquiet, grate, beset, bother, tease, nettle, tantalize or ruffle the animals." Wellenstein explains that the sign was given to her by former student Pauline Afuso (Class of '83) because it reminded Afuso of the people in room A-8.

Two small furry animals who do not like to be harassed, but "love to go for walks," are the Spots, who inhabit Miss Mary Ann Kaestner's room. She has used these two stuffed dogs as hall passes for the past three years.

Possibly the strangest hall pass is used by Mr. Garnet Hill, who teaches biology. His students must carry the jawbone of an ass whenever they leave his class room. Hill explains that he found the bone out in the desert and enjoys using it because it is "something different and has some Biblical significance."

Do You Like Balloons?

"Oh my God!" exclaimed a startled Mr. Mike Rios as he walked into his balloon filled classroom one Monday morning. His students thought he had had a party over the weekend. The mystery behind this "balloon initiation" was all started by Ms. Mary Ann Kaestner, the head of the science department. At the beginning, Rios started to receive "pregnant balloons" with notes tied to them. The notes said things like "Do you like balloons?", "This one has twins," and "Do you still like us?" Then on the following Monday morning as Rios walked calmly into his classroom he was greeted with a hoard of balloons covering everything from the floor to the cupboards and even the lights. This whole affair was begun and ended without getting newcoming life science teacher Rios very mad.

Rios had originally come from Duarte High School where he also taught science. He graduated from U.C. Irvine where he majored in biology and then went to graduate school to earn a masters degree in the same subject. While a subsitiute, he went to Cal State L.A. to finish the requirements for his credential.

In his spare time, Rios likes visiting friends, backpacking, playing tennis, and going to church. "Church takes a lot of my time," commented Rios. As a proof of that fact, he recently directed a church play entitled "Holy Ghostbusters." Rios likes to "pal around with kids," but when it comes time to get to work, it's all business.

Computer People Expand Program

Everything from refrigerators and washing machines to telephones and video games is computerized. Let's face it, our society is virtually run by computers. Not to be left out of this computer age, Schurr High School has added four computer classes to its curriculum.

The new classes have something to offer for every student. The students range from those who have never seen a monitor to ones who can complete complex programs. On the first rung of the ladder is the World of Computers class offering an introduction to basic computer language and programming.

For more advanced students there is Computer Operations 1-2 that will go deeper into programming technics. Another computer course is combined with Business and Office Machines. At the top of the ladder the Computer Operations 3-4 class teaches students graphics and advanced programming in different languages.

The computerized generation has definitely made its mark at Schurr. Because of the great interest, Accounting 1-2 and 3-4 classes were dropped to make room for the computer courses.

▲ Maintianing her poise, Andrea Phillips rushes to complete last night's Spanish homework.

▶ Confused about the latest composition assignment, Edmund Rouge spends some extra time after school to ask Ms. Joy Phillips about tone.

▲▶ The beginning of a new semester brings a smile to Mrs. Cheryl Portillo's face when she finds that her grade book is full of fresh, clean, unblemished paper.

SAT-URATION

The summer PSAT-SAT Workshop, advised by Mr. Clark Barrett and directed by Gary Ogasawara and Derek Miyahara, was attended by many college-bound students.

The workshop was divided into two sessions which went from 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. two or three times a week. The students were divided into groups according to their previous PSAT scores so that they would work at about the same level.

At each session, the students were drilled and tested on a hundred vocabulary words. Then they were taught new strategies on the verbal and math sections, but the workshop's main stress was vocabulary drill.

Because these students spent their summer studying, they'll be smarter when it comes time for the SAT test. At the end of the SAT-PSAT Workshop the vast majority had raised their scores.

When asked if the workshop was very effective, Barrett stated, "Definitely! I wouldn't have advised it year after year unless I saw evidence of improvement."

Manos Migrates

For 15 years, the Montebello School District had one physics class for all the high schools in the district. The 1984-85 school year was the first year that each of the three high schools had its own fully equipped lab and its own physics teacher.

"The fact that we now have such an excellent lab facility at Schurr High School is proof of the Montebello Unified School District's commitment to quality education," stated physics teacher Harry Manos, who transferred from Montebello High School this year.

This past summer, room C310 was converted and new equipment was purchased at a combined cost of $40,000. Manos explained the need for the new lab: "The district was satisfied with the program at MHS, where Schurr students had been taking physics for the past 13 years. The idea was to bring to Schurr the same quality program that Schurr students had at Montebello. We needed an extra science class and enrollment in physics was up — we wanted to expand the program and include some AP classes."

Included among the new equipment are 14 linear air tracks, 14 lasers, 14 osilloscopes (dual trace), optical benches, signal generators, and power supplies.

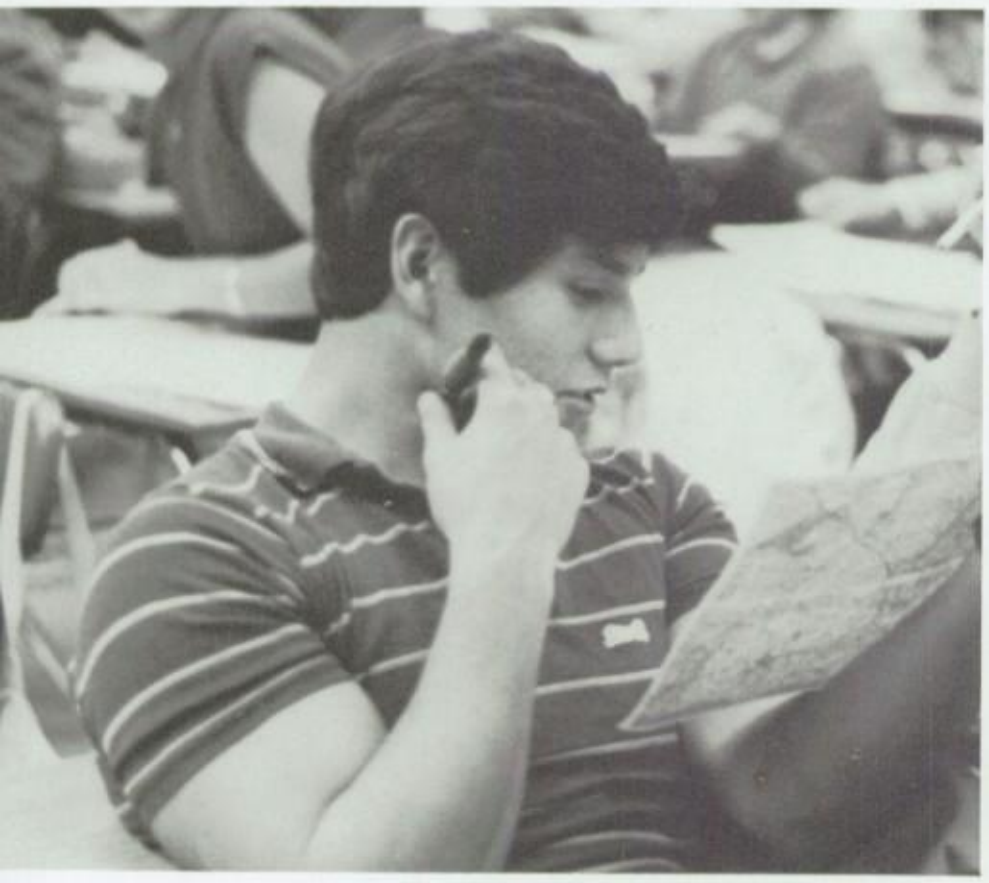
Manos presented Schurr's new lab as a "model lab" at an annual meeting of high school physics teachers held at Occidental College, where the lab was "enthusiastically received." Manos himself is also very impressed with the new lab, saying, "It's the best high school lab in the state and it is even better than most of the junior college labs in the state."

▶ Toasting the health of coffee lovers around the world, Mr. Russ Davis greets his World Geography class with his early morning mood.

▼ An eager freshman makes sure that he is aware of a contemporary health problem by listening intently to Mr. Robert Allen's lecture.

▲ Diligently studying, Mike Marino, Michelle Yanez, Denise Sosnowski, and George Aspeitia examine the United States Constitution.

▶ Capturing his class' attention, with another war story, Mr. Gene Goebel informs the students of the various causes of World War II.



Before venturing outside to behind the wheel training, Mando Hernandez makes sure that s familiar with the streets of Montebello.

▲ Stumped by Melinda White's question, Mr. Richard Smith searches his mind to re-mber the answer.

New Cars Replace the Old

Last June 7, new Dodge Aries station wagons were purchased at a cost of $9,000 each for the driver's education program. They were paid for by the Montebello Unified School District.

After being submitted to the wear-and-tear of inexperienced drivers for three years, the American Motors Concords were replaced and auctioned off at approximately $3,000 each. Finding that it would be more economical to purchase new automobiles instead of repairing the transmissions and brakes of the old cars, they purchased the cars and received reimbursements at 80% of the cost of each car by the California State Traffic citation fund.

According to Mr. Varian Griggs, who teaches driver's education on campus, "Safety was a big factor in buying the new cars."

Mr. Gene Goebel, who has been teaching driver's training to students for about 30 years, comments that the cars "run much better than the old ones; very smooth." The instructors like them very much.

CLASS-IFIED
ADS

Classified Ads. Because of its students and faculty, Schurr High School has added "classiness" to the community. But "classiness" cannot be solely attributed to one school. The many merchants in the area add respectability, friendliness and "class" to the community. In this section, many local merchants advertised to support the Spectrum. It is a tribute to them and their community that their merchants have become involved with the school and the students who are often their patrons. Their support and patronage is evidence of the combined effort of the school and the merchants to better the community and add a touch of class.

SCHURR ATHLETIC BOOSTER CLUB

The Booster Club wishes the Class of 1985 much success and best wishes for a productive future. To all those students returning, the Booster Club is ready to help in making the Schurr High School athletic program the best anywhere.

In the past five years the Booster Club has raised and spent over $50,000 to help our athletes and coaches. Some of the items purchased are a weight machine, a track port-a-pit, a pitching machine, a tennis ball machine, and camp sponsorship for pepsters and drill team members.

Our club meetings are the second Wednesday of each month in the school library. Won't you join us and lend your support to Schurr High?

Richard Calva, President

Mr. Tom Sciandra congratulates Mr. John Rodarte on the fine job the Booster Club workers did on renovating the concession stand. Key workers with Mr. Rodarte were Mr. Delman Davis, Mr. Ed Solorio, and Mr. Larry Guerra.

MEMORIES

There is so much to say and so little room to write. We have shared so many special times together and there are times I wish I could forget. But I'm glad through it all we've made it! We've both changed in our little ways. But our relationship is still hanging in there. You are such a special person in my life that I care about and luv so much. I will always cherish the special times we share day after day. I'm so glad to know we will always be there for each other in time of need. I hope our relationship will last forever n ever. It's a relationship that shall never be forgotten. Can you actually believe I made it through high school! Aren't you happy for me, I thought this day would never come. Remember my first year, I was so lost and scared and I couldn't wait till I graduated. I want to thank you for always being there when times were hard, 'cause at times it really helped a lot. You are the most understanding, caring, and loving person I know. You have brought me so much joy and happiness, more than any words can express. You are one of the best things to into my life and I never want to lose you!, really don't know what I would do without you. I will always be here for you and don't ever forget that! You always seem to put a smile on my face at anytime. My 4 years at Schurr have been fun and tough at times and I'm glad I had someone there by my side to push me and tell me to strive for the very best! Maybe I didn't do my very best, but after all I think I learned. I sure am glad it's finally over, I know I'll miss it later, like you always say, "enjoy high school while you can it only comes once in a life time." That's true! Don't worry I'll soon come to realize that. But right now I'm so glad I finally made it! Graduation is going to be so exciting, I can hardly wait! Anyways, I just want to say thank's for everything you've given and done for me. You are the most thoughtful person I know. Good luck at reaching your highest goals in life 'cause I know you'll make all your dreams come true. Well high school finally has come to a end and it's been so much fun, but life goes on and I'm glad our relationship will too!! Love ya' always 1-4-3

Colleen, Dayna, Laura and "Co" - Graduation is finally here (except for "Co"). Hope you had a good summer and Hawaii. Here we come! Gosh can you guys believe it! You four are my closest friends and I can't thank you guys enough for being so sweet, thoughtful, caring. We all sure have had some crazy times together and I'll never forget any of them. Well no more fooling around! We have to get down to business. I wish all of you the best of luck in college and in the near future!

Wendy/Winaka
Thanks 4 everything!

Greg, Bitsy, Jeff - It went by pretty fast, you guys are crazy, but I'm glad we were friends. Thanks for all the laughs, lunch, thanks for helping me out in english, math and everything. You've been a big help. Michelle, Diana, Camille - you girls made my last year a great one. I will always remember the great times. John T. - You've made my senior year a fun one. Away from the B.S. activities, we did lots of other things which was really fun. You and the rest of the gang helped me alot Naomi, Susan, Linda, - the three stooges. Thanks for the good times. Flying, B-ball, and other activities, you girls made it more exciting. Although I always make fun of you (Linda), I hope you never take it seriously. Kathy, - you've made my senior with little without your help. I might have failed, although I'm only kidding you for a short while, I've considered you one of my best friends. You will always be a special person in my life, and I will always cherish the good times. Well everybody, thanks alot Cheryl & Michelle ~ Well, summers finally here and this time around it's graduation. We made it! Our HS days are over. I realize it's only been a few months that I've known you guys but I feel like we've been friendz forever. Thanks for making my senior year a very special one for me. Good luck in everything you do. I wish you much happiness & success.

Wanda, Gina & Vera ~ what can I say to you all, except your definitely one of a kind. Your all very special people who hold a special place in my heart!! You became my friendz when I felt the rest of the world turned its back on me. When I was down you guys made me smile & reminded that you were my friendz. I'll always remember the friendship you've given me. Vera ~ How can I express what a super friend you've been. Our friendship has gone back so many years and I'm glad were still good friendz. We've been through so many good times & bad times too. Remember those basketball & baseball games in 4th grade. Those were a bunch of laughs. I can also remember that time at Mt. Herman, I was able to listen & be that friend for you when you needed me and now look at this year. You've helped me when I needed someone to listen to me & understand what I was going through. Thanks! Andrew ~ you've been a very special friend to me throughout the years. I don't know what I would of done without your friendship. You've shown me what the value of a true friendship is. Nothing can ever come between our friendship. Take care ♥ Lisa

To all the wonderful people who have made the past four years most memorable: It would be impossible to thank everyone in such a small space, but I must mention a few very special people. Diana: I've known you just too long. It's a wonder you can still stand me. Best of luck always. Keep in touch. Ruby: You are so weird. I'll never forget you. Cal Berkeley! Cindy: Best Wishes Mrs. Imai! U.S.B: Mike - thanks for doing the marquee. Chris - Michelle - Gina - Elaine - Thanks 4 everything -PRINCE- Nerissa

Anna, Julie, Suzie, "Petty", and Liz:
Thanks for being such good friends. Anna: When I go off to college, one of my most cherished memories will be the times we talked and shared our experiences. Julie, Suzie, and "Petty": Cross-Country would not be the same without you. Thanks for the memories! Liz: Keep smiling! Glad we met in summer school. Mr. Marentes: I'll always remember you! You're a great coach & friend.

Dear John: You are indeed the most precious person in my life. I thank God for you. Thanks for everything and for being you. I love you.
Love always, Stefanie

Gina - We actually made it! Remember how crazy our freshmen year was?! We were able to make mistakes and just say, "I'm only a freshman" We've come such a long way since then, I guess everyone has to grow up. I'm just glad we were able to do it together. We had a few "critical times", but it helped us to strengthen our relationship, because we were able to be honest, understanding, and very opened w/ each other. I can't thank you enough for all the support and encouragement you gave me to accomplish things that I thought I could never do. always remember that I care and love you very much. Whenever you need me, just call my name and "I'll be there" with an unselfish love. -♡-

Michelle - I don't think either of us suspected, when we first met & remember those crazy days) that we would be here today sharing the closeness of our friendship. Thanks for everything. and always live for that "unforgettable dream". Candace - always remember ... winter, spring, summer, or fall all you have to do is call and I'll be there ... you've got a friend. Wendy - you're a very special part of my life and I wish you and Melvin the best. Christina and Rochelle - remember the "best of times and "auntie carol". -♡- Dahni - Thanks for always giving me the "benefit of the doubt." Sari - you'll always be my favorite Niece. Conrad - My dearest husband even though we were hardly ever in class and when we were, we'd always get into trouble, but ... I had lots of fun! Mike Sakamoto - thanks for helping me out in Contemporary Living. Stacy and Linda - be good ... only one more year to go! Shannon - "stylin' little bro" I'll never forget the "10 foot stream" 45 seconds flat!) Mom, Dad, Ada, Berda, Hank, Chris and Baldwin - thanks for putting up with my "attitude" I realize family is important!

Randy - I will be forever by your side -♡-

I love all of you very much! You're very special to me & always n forever, Wanda Wanda: my very best friend.

You have always been there for me when I needed you the most. Through everything that we've experienced we've grown - and it sure wasn't easy, but just knowing you were going through things so much easier. Remember all the good times cuz they will stay with me forever. Remember poly and your lucky feather? & don't ever change cuz you are perfect just the way you are.

Candace: Though we've drifted these past years I will always love you. I still remember "the best of times" & they really were! I'll never forget everything you've been for me. Lets stay in touch and remember that I'll always be your sunshine.

Mom: Thanks for all your love & support. I couldn't have made it without you.

Shannon: Good luck little brother. Be good

I love you all, Gina

Vera - We have formed a friendship that has become invaluable to us. Through all the years and all the good and "hard" times. We've always remained close. Thank you for always being there for us. For you. We'll do the same 'cause we care. You can always count on us. Linda - best friends forever. You are a very special person and we love you. Kristy Nomura - We want you to know that you'll always be our special friend Sandi - best of luck with Michael VV, Philip, and Willy - We'll miss you guys so keep in touch! Vikki - Good luck in making it one more year. Thanks for being so sweet Darin - We're really gonna miss you so keep in touch and let's go out sometime ☺ Stanley - Good luck in everything you do Mom Kamimura - the coolest "Joe" Yvette - the dancing machine "I think I wanna rock" Franny - Thanks for being such a special Big Sis Denise - We think fun in you and all you do Dahni - Remember the "Hoki Hoki" love and Lisa Maria.

We love you all — ♡ Wanda and Gina

Wanda and Gina best friends ♥

Sean. my sunshine and happiness. you always brighten up my day. We've shared so much together that you've become a big part of me. I treasure all the good times! I love you with all my heart. always, Gina

Class. From September to June, class could be found in every facet of high school life. At Homecoming, class spirit abounded. At the Christmas Ball and the Prom, the tuxes and gowns created an air of elegance. Through efforts by students to aid the hungry in Ethiopia, we showed our concern for others. Even on the football field, there was sportsmanship and class.

For the seniors, this past year was especially memorable. It was a time for reminiscing as well as looking forward to life after high school. For others it was a year of triumphs and trials, friendships and broken romances. For many it was the final year with the people they had spent most of their time with. In the end, however, we are still left with the realization that another year has gone and another summer is ahead.

When we look back on this year, we will remember all the good times as well as the disappointments. But, one thing will stand out; it was a year of class.

▼ In the chill of the morning air, the Senior Class challenges the juniors to a spirited yelling contest.

▼ Rochelle Ramirez gives a pointer on pep to the Spart football fans at Heaman Field.

▲ With streamers cascading down her back, Michelle Ysais heads away from the spirited Homecoming pep rally to the food booths in the kiosk area.

▲ Returning to school in September, a C-Building stairway lunch gang still shows signs of a severe case of summeriti

Looking out into the endless ocean at Morrow Bay, Jerry Gonzales and Lydia Hernandez contemplate life back in the seemingly amped classrooms at school.

After finals week comes to a close, the C Building front hall is decked with streams of leftover homework.

Colophon

Class, Volume XIII of the Schurr High School Spectrum, was created, edited, and financed by the 1985 Spectrum Staff. The book was published by Herff Jones Yearbooks in Marceline, Missouri. The color sections were printed on 80-pound Ermine paper and the black and white sections on 80-pound Bordeaux. The cover features a ¾ binding of brushed silver on black. The logo and spine were silver foil stamped.

Senior and faculty portraits were taken by Sanford Studios of Whittier, California. Their services were also used for candid photography. Underclass portraits were taken by United School Studios.

Body copy was printed in 10-point Times Roman with 8-point type in the captions and 12-point on division pages. Decorative faces used were Van Dijk, Lydian and Souvenir.

TO DANNY,
A REALLY NICE
GUY WHO'S ALSO VERY WEIRD. I LOVE YOUR
YOGA-IMPRESSION.

Danny,
To a real sweet (non-non) guy I met this year. Well Dan, I really want to thank you for listening to my problems & helping me solved them too. Dan, sorry things didn't work-out with monica, carol, & claudia and ..... etc. ..... (enough). Hey don't forget to wait for me in front of the school for summer school, because remember we are gonna party like there is no tomorrow. (right?)

Continue over there

Danny-
Your a really super sweet guy... stay that way! Hopefully you had a great junior year # 1 see you next year!!
Have a Rad summer and
Stay out of trouble!

Love,
Jolyn

Danny,
your a real nice guy.
I'm glad I met you
Typing was pretty boring
but you made it fun.
Have a real good summer
and I hope to see you next year.
